The Popolo Di Roman says Mussolini's magnificent defiance of Germany must not be dissected or discussed. "It is necessary that it remain with us in its nude Roman potency." It is possible to push nude Roman potency too far. Italy's plan for regaining domination of the Mediterranean, which nude Roman potency won by the destruction of Carthage, causes anxiety and anger in France, Spain, England, Russia and Greece. It war should come it would be a matter of flying machines, coal, money and especially of international alliances.

The Italians are wonderful fighters. No nation excels them in courage. But you cannot win modern wars with fine phrases, nude Roman potency, or unlimited courage, if your enemies combine against you.

Mrs. Mary Harrington, of Mahanoy City, Pa., had several children. Her husband, a coal miner on strike, went to look for work in another town. She gave her children what food she had and she died of hunger.

One advantage is with the mine owners. No matter how long a strike lasts, mine owners, their wives and children never starve. That's an advantage, yet pushed too far, it can become a disadvantage.

When told that the poor had no bread, Marie Antoinette wondered why they did not eat cake. Later she and her husband stopped eating, on the guillotine. She was only a poor fool.

An able statesman of her time suggested that the people eat glass. The people stuffed their mouth with glass.

USE LIFE LINE IN RESCUE AS SMACK IS LOST IN BLIZZARD

Two Fall Into Raging Sea, Another Washed Overboard.

BOAT HITS ROCKS

Thrilling Marine Drama Is Enacted Near Gloucester, Mass.

GLoucester, Mass., Feb. 10.—Over an improvised life-line, one end tied to the shattered spar of the wrecked Gloucester fishing smack Ralph Brown, and the other held by three seamen standing in the howling blizzard on the rocks of Brier Neck, Captain Alvaro Quadros and 18 men reached shore in safety today.

Two men attempted to make the perilous trip when the line was slack and fell into the raging sea and were drowned. A third, who clung to the main boom, was washed overboard before his mates reached him.

The dead are Manuel Janeiro, John Bragata and Joseph Lopes, all of Gloucester.

Schooner's Back Snapped.

Blinded by the swirling snow of a howling northeast storm that swept the coast and running to port in the teeth of a 50-mile-an-hour blow, the skipper of the two-masted haddock lost his course and piled his ship up on the treacherous off-shore shoals.

As the schooner's back snapped, the 21 fishermen aboard began a desperate battle for their lives.

Crawling ashore on the foreboom, Captain Quadros and three men made a dangerous leap to the rocks. Those on the crumpled ship threw a line to the three men ashore.

One by one the fishermen came ashore over the slender life line while the men ashore risked their lives on the rocks with the angry sea beating around them, the salt spray biting their faces and the swirling snow nearly blinding them.

Meanwhile, Captain Hilton Acker and six seamen of the Gloucester coast guard station were performing an act of heroism by putting out in the blow in the motor lifeboat. The lifeboat nearly went under several times and was saved only by bailing.

First news of the wreck came when a fisherman, almost exhausted, stumbled to the door of a cottage at Good Harbor.

$25,526.50 Collected In Auto Licenses Here By J. S. Hilbert

Deputy Commissioner Issues 3,401 Sets of Plates—46 Applicants Are Non-residents.

Collections in automobile license fees at the East Liverpool station—the George H. Owen & company—up to the close of business on Saturday amounted to $25,526.50, Deputy Commissioner J. S. Hilbert announced today.

Three thousand, four hundred and one sets of plates have been issued. Of the applicants all but 46 were residents of Columbiana county.

Pleasure car plates, numbering 2,852, have netted $12,978, while 436

truck plates brought in $11,517. Fifty-nine pleasure-commercial cars were licensed, adding $672. There were six trailers, which cost $53.50, one motorcycle at $2.50 and one side-car at $1.50. Thirty-one transfers were also issued, the revenue being $59.90. Six duplicate tags were also issued at $1 each, or a total of $6, while one motorist secured a duplicate certificate at a cost of $1.

The 46 cars licensed from outside counties netted $235. This money is forwarded to the auditor in the county in which the machines are owned.

The revenue from tags this year has been reduced because of the cut in the fees for pleasure cars.

Funds collected are turned into the automobile license division of the county auditor's office, and later disbursed among the respective subdivisions.

REPUBLICAN STATE COMMITTEE DEBATES $70,000 DEBT AT MEET

Well Dressed Woman Of 1926 Will Wear Only Two Garments

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—The well dressed woman of 1926 will wear less clothes, it was announced today.

Two garments are plenty, Katherine Cunningham, Chicago designer, told the twenty-first annual convention of corseteers.

One garment, she said, would be a combination which serves the purpose of brassiere, corset and "undie."

Garment number two is the outer dress—there is no more.

"The corset as we knew it 20 years ago has disappeared never to return," said Miss Cunningham.

Rev. A. H. O'Brien Preaches at Meet In Baptist Church

Rev. A. H. O'Brien occupied the pulpit of the First Baptist church, last evening, substituting for Rev. Mel Morris, Greensboro, Md., evangelist, who was called back to his home to conduct funeral services for a member of his church.

Rev. Mr. O'Brien's subject was "The Day of Pentecost." Three persons accepted the invitation. Members of the Salvation Army, who were accompanied by their band, were special guests.

Rev. Mr. Morris is expected to return here today and to occupy the pulpit at tonight's service. He will also preach Thursday and Friday evenings, returning home Saturday. The Salvation Army band will attend tonight's service.

Rumors of Fight Over Deficit Are Heard in Lobbies of Columbus Hotels—Discuss November Campaign.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 10.—Discussion of plans for a huge money raising campaign to tide the party through the coming November elections and to wipe out a deficit of approximately $70,000 still hanging over from 1924 loomed as the most important matter to come before the Republican state central committee as committeemen gathered here in preparation for the meeting this afternoon.

Hotel lobbies buzzed with rumors of a fight over the deficit and it was generally agreed that this must be disposed of before funds for the coming campaign can be discussed.

The deficit is an old sore in the sides of the committeemen, many of whom feel that the committee proper should disavow the debt and pass it on to the Davis campaign committee for disposal.

The campaign committee was named following the nomination of Harry J. Davis in the last general election. At Davis' request, Clarence J. Neal, of Cleveland, was named chairman. This committee, Republican headquarters asserts, incurred all indebtedness.

While there are committeemen who would disclaim the debt, it is believed the majority realizes that regardless of what faction may pay the score in or out, the party must pay the bill.

With the November campaign now formally under way, the organization feels that some definite and immediate step should be taken.

FEVER DEATH RATE CUT HERE BY PURE WATER, D. H. RUPP SAYS

City Chemist Speaks at County Medical Meeting.

LUNCHEON HELD

Physicians Hear Address at Session in Larkins Annex.

East Liverpool's typhoid fever rate has been decreased to a minimum since the establishment of the municipal filtration plant, City Chemist Daniel H. Rupp told members of the Columbiana County Medical society at a luncheon in the Larkins annex, Market street, today.

Rupp, who spoke on "Public Water Supplies and Public Health," characterized the water work plant here as one of the "best" in the country.

The meeting was in charge of Dr. J. M. King of Wellsville. Physicians from East Liverpool, Wellsville, Chester and Salem attended.

The society plans a demonstration in physical examination at the March meeting, which will be held at Lisbon. The physicians say that every man, woman and child should undergo examination at a regular interval, just as a motor car is inspected by a mechanic to be kept in A-1 condition.

Rupp's Address.

Mr. Rupp said in part: "As all of you know the source of East Liverpool's water supply is the Ohio river, the water works plant being situated above the city on the Pennsylvania-Ohio state line.

"The intake pier is situated on the northern side of the river several hundred feet from shore. It has three gates—one for low water stage extending to deep water—one for pool stage and another for flood stage. The water flows by gravity through pier and intake pipe to the suction well. Here the two 5,000-gallon low lift centrifugal pumps take suction and pump the water to the adjacent filtration plant, which has a nominal capacity of 6 million gallons per day.

The water from the filters is collected in a 700,000 gallon clear well. From here it is pumped by two 5,000-gallon displacement pumps to two low service reservoirs and also two 2,500,000 gallon displacement pumps to the high service reservoirs and stand pipe. The East End and lower side of the city are served direct from the pumps, the main portion of the

"CHURCH NIGHT" IS OBSERVED

"Church Night" was observed in connection with the revival service at the First Methodist Episcopal church, last evening. The crowd was the largest since the special series of meetings started.

The augmented choir, led by Prof. Charles Weland, of Aurora, Ill., rendered special music. Rev. Dr. Frank G. Fowler's subject was "He Knocked for Admittance." A group picture of the choir and church officials was taken at the close of the service.

Tonight will be "Family Night." Prof. Weland will give a present to the largest family attending the meeting. Dr. Fowler's subject will be "Two Ways."

STREET CAR TRAFFIC PARALYZED WHEN SNOW FREES IMMENSE SLIDE

Twenty Persons Narrowly Escape Death as Huge Rock Crashes Down Pennsylvania Avenue Hillside and Wrecks One-Man Type "Dead-head," Carrying Traction Employees.

FOUR "EARLY RUN" MEN AND MILL COOK INJURED; TWO IN HOSPITAL

Dynamite is Used to Clear Eastbound Track After Obstruction Covers Right of Way, Completely Blocking Operation of Cars Which Were in Barn Awaiting Arrival of Crews.

Five persons, four of them street car employees, were injured, while at least 15 others suffered minor bruises when a boulder, estimated to weigh at least 80 tons, toppled from the Pennsylvania avenue hill and crashed into the side of an east-bound "deadhead" trolley car near the Red Steps at 4:37 o'clock this morning.

THE INJURED:
DONALD GLASS, 21, 1145 Clark avenue, Wellsville, conductor, cut and bruised; in city hospital.
ROY NICHOLSON, 34, 330 Eighteenth street, Wellsville, motorman, lacerated and bruised; in city hospital.

ROBERT REIL, 25, East End, operator of wrecked one-man type car, shoulder injured; removed to his home.
RONALD WHITE, 40, St. Clair avenue, motorman, bruised and cut; injuries dressed at hospital.

All of the injured were seated on the north side of the car, next to the hillside, when the crash occurred. The upper side of the car was torn out, but the car remained on the rails and was operated to the East End car barns under its own power.

Rock Loosened by Thaws.

The boulder, loosened by yesterday's rains and thaws and the snow which fell during the night, completely blocked both the east and west-bound tracks. All street car traffic in the East Liverpool district, with the exception of the Newell and Y. & O. lines, were tied up for almost three hours as a result of the accident.

The eastbound track was cleared to allow cars to go through at 7:45 o'clock this morning, but it will be evening before the west bound track is open, traction company officials said.

The car, which is used mainly in transporting "early run" traction workers to the Pennsylvania avenue car barn, left East End at 3:30 o'clock this morning. It operated to Wooster's stop in Wellsville and was making the trip back to the car barn when the slide occurred.

The rock crashed from the hillside just as the car was passing. Many passengers jumped as the boulder rolled down the hillside.

The injured street car men were removed to the City hospital in automobiles, where they were attended by Drs. C. H. Bailey and F. E. Davis. Reil and White were the less seriously injured.

Reil and White reported at the car barn after their injuries were dressed and started his morning run. Reil was taken to his home in East End. Neither Glass nor Nicholson was seriously injured.

DEATH, INJURY AND PROPERTY DAMAGE ARE REPORTED AS HEAVY SNOWFALL BLANKETS OHIO, PENNSYLVANIA, EAST AND NEW ENGLAND

Columbiana county roads were piled high with drifts today as the result of the snow storm which swept the Ohio Valley last night, leaving the countryside covered with a six-inch mantle.

All road equipment was in service today in an effort to clear the main arteries. Drifts to the depth of two and three feet were reported to the county surveyor's office in Lisbon.

Street Commissioner Oliver Buzzard pressed his entire force into service here in cleaning gutters in the downtown district and opening crossings at street intersections.

Officials of the Ohio Bell Telephone company reported little damage to their lines. A few toll lines were out of service, while a few complaints were received from local subscribers.

Trains on Schedule.

Passenger trains on the C. & P. division were operating on schedule, according to attaches at the local ticket office. Interurban cars to Beaver, Steubenville and Salem were only a few minutes off schedule despite the handicaps under which the cars were being operated.

Lawrence Copeland, United States government observer at Millport, estimated the snowfall at five and one-half inches. The average depth of snow which covers the ground now, according to Copeland, is between eight and nine inches.

In order to conserve the gas for domestic consumers, the Manufacturer's Light and Heat company this morning placed a ban on the use of gas for kiln firing. About 25 kilns, which are burning today, will be out tomorrow. There is no coal shortage here.

Two Injured In Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 10.—Clevelanders awoke this morning to find the city covered with a blanket of snow more than three inches in thickness, which swirling winds in some cases has piled into drifts three feet or more high. The snow was still falling at 8 o'clock. The storm brought with it a drop in temperature to 13 degrees above zero.

Street car traffic was hampered, and some automobiles were stalled. Interurban and steam trains were reported running behind schedule. Wire communication was also hampered. Some wires being snapped by the weight of the snow.

Air mails both east and west were delayed. Due to storms in the east, the westbound mail did not leave New York, while the eastbound mail, after leaving the Bryan, O. field, enroute to Cleveland, was forced to put back because of the storm.

Two persons were in hospitals suffering from accidents incident to the storm.

One Killed In New York.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—With snow still falling early today the city faced another million dollar snow-shoveling bill. Hardly was the work of clearing the streets well under way before a blizzard which lasted all last night virtually undid the work of thousands of men.

Four inches had been added today to the fall of 10 inches which bound the city last week. Traffic was again demoralized and shipping was tied up to await possible visibility.

One man was killed when struck by a snow train. He had been blinded by the storm. He was John Devlin, 33, an elevated track walker.

A change of wind late today was expected to dissipate the blizzard in New York and bring relief to New England which has been suffering from low temperatures. The Connecticut valley reported 20 below zero at White River Junction. The official reading at Northfield, Vermont, was 12 below.

The storm gained in intensity as the day advanced. Thousands were late for work. The storm at 9 this morning gave every indication of equalling the recent blizzard, which was the worst storm of the winter.

Child Is Auto Victim.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The national capital was buried today under the heaviest snowfall of the year.

A blanket of above 12 inches prevailed on the level, impeding traffic and making thousands living in nearby Maryland and Virginia late to work.

The snow storm caused the death of one child, the probable fatal injury of three others, and a dozen traffic accidents in which motorists were less seriously injured. Rosemary Corby, one year old, was killed in a motor collision in front of the treasury building.

BURGETTSTOWN BOARD DIVIDED

Thirteen Directors of Fair Association Re-sign Places.

Thirteen members of the board of directors of the Union Agricultural association of Burgettstown, the oldest organization in southwestern Pennsylvania, have resigned as a climax to a bitter fight in its ranks, which is the outgrowth of feeling produced by the continuance in power of J. M. Pyle, following his arrest for alleged liquor law violation.

Pyle's arrest occurred last fall, just a few weeks prior to the staging of the annual fair at Burgettstown. Pressure was brought to bear on Pyle to resign, but he remained as head of the association.

Election of directors took place in December. The association is a mutual organization with no stockholders and paying no dividends. Persons purchasing membership tickets during the fair are eligible to vote, providing the tickets are registered with the secretary.

At the election about 100 votes were cast, although only 27 had been registered with the secretary.

Twenty-eight directors were chosen and the directors at their reorganization meeting elected Holler C. Vance of Cross Creek township, president. Objecting to alleged irregularities in the election, Vance presented his resignation the next day. J. P. Baily, of Bulker, as first vice president, automatically became head of the association, but he, too, refused to accept the office. The organization remained then without a duly elected head until a meeting of the directors was held Saturday, when J. H. Muchland of Hamlin station was chosen president and N. H. Hindman of Colliers, vice president. J. L. McGough of Burgettstown was re-elected secretary and Ralph Bell of Burgettstown, treasurer.

Facts regarding the resignation of 13 members of the board of directors came with the announcement that the following now constituted the board: D. L. Lewis, J. M. Pyle, John A. Phyllis and Henry Colterman of Burgettstown; Auden Miller and J. E. Vance, Avella; A. S. Cunningham and J. A. Cowden, Hickory; Lloyd Linn, R. D. Washington; J. H. Templeton, Canonsburg; Harry Kelso, R. D. McDonald; Dwight Cooley, Clinton; and George Marshall, Puktown, W. Va. Directors elected in December, whose names have been withdrawn, due to the friction, are: H. C. Vance and Lee R. Scott, Burgettstown; John Johnston and Charles Patterson of Cross Creek township; Frank Savage and Earl Hood, Hanover township; James Neil and J. P. Baily, Robinson township; J. E. White, Cecil township; John Elliott, Honewell township; Mel Moorehead, McDonald, and Frank Rabb, Midway.

BE KIND TO GOOD LITTLE SNAKES IS ADVICE OF U. S. BIOLOGISTS

WASHINGTON.—Wallo biologists of the department of Agriculture agree that Saint Patrick may have driven all the snakes out of Ireland, they contend that superstitious fear of snakes in this country has led to persistent belief in various baseless myths about the habits of different species.

he "hoop snake" and "stinging snake" traditions are among these. The hoop snake, the biologists say, is credited with the power to form itself into a hoop and roll in pursuit of its victim with race horse speed. If the victim dodges and a tree is struck by the hoop snake, the tree is said to be sure to die.

The stinging snake myth apparently originated more than 200 years ago. It was based on the appearance of the horn snake, which is harmless. The tail of this snake has the shape of a horn or spike, but it is quite incapable of piercing or stinging anything.

The myth of snakes sucking cows is entirely untenable, the biologists contend. According to biologists, the spreading viper or puffing adder, known also by other names, is one of the greatest bluffers among snakes. One of its peculiar habits is that of feigning death by rolling over on its back. It is entirely harmless, as is also the "coach-whip" snake, which is supposed to be able to whip a man to death.

Contrary to popular belief, most common snakes are neither obnoxious nor poisonous, the biologists assert. The prevalent dread of snakes is due largely to the fear of such venomous species as the cotton-mouth moccasin, the copperhead, the rattlesnake, the massasauga, and the coral snake. "Wherever snakes are present in abnormally large numbers there must be an abundance of living animal food in the vicinity to attract them," the Biological Survey experts say. "This food consists largely of injurious rodents and insects, pests of garden crops and stored foodstuffs. Snakes eat such small living creatures as earthworms, spiders, grasshoppers, salamanders, frogs, mice, rats, chipmunks and young rabbits. King snakes are able to kill rattlesnakes and have been known to eat them. The little red-bellied snake subsists to a large extent on slugs, which are very destructive to gardens. Bull snakes and gopher snakes destroy large numbers of injurious rodents in the course of a year."

"Local campaigns for the destruction of these poisonous snakes may be desirable in many districts."

The organ being played upon the most right now is the nose—Zanesville Signal.

"A letter which I read in the paper about Carter's Little Liver Pills fitted my own case so closely that I could not help trying them and am very happy I did." So writes Mr. Frank J. Trumbull of Jersey City, N. I tried them and can honestly say that they freed me of nasty rest assured that from now on gas on stomach, so that I can now eat without getting bilious, and they improved my appetite fully 100%. Two Moves In Right Direction

Mayor Ralph C. Benedum deserves a word of praise for two moves he made yesterday. They are:

1—Declaration of war against peddlers, beggars and street corner loafers.

2—Entering into a contract with the Stark county commissioners for the commitment of East Liverpool prisoners to the Canton workhouse.

East Liverpool has been overrun during the last few months with mendicants, not to mention the hordes of peddlers who seem to think this is a good territory. Returns from begging, generally done by men who are better able to work than the persons whom they approach for financial aid, reach surprising totals, police investigations show.

Transient peddlers deserve no quarter. They contribute nothing to the upkeep of the city other than the insignificant sum they pay for a license—and many of them do not even seek a permit. And they are competitors of the merchant who is here 365 days a year and pays taxes, either directly or indirectly, for the support of the municipality.

With a workhouse agreement in effect, Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley has a weapon that should drive home to habitual offenders that it does not pay to break the law.

No Trees, No Crops

"If grain were pouring through cracks in a barn, or money were being lost through holes in a bank, the owners of such treasure would hasten to stop the breach," writes a correspondent in the Atlanta, Ga., Journal. "But millions of dollars' worth of Georgia soil, the stronghold of her harvest hopes, are being swept away from treeless and untended lands. Every rain digs the red gullies deeper and adds to the lost wealth which the rivers drag down to the sea.

"It is not simply so much earth that drifts away; it is the capital of the coming years, the source and sinew of future enterprise, the very bread for which some day our children will ask to find only stones. What can check and prevent this waste? Only the reforesting of naked and barren slopes, the terracing of farm hillsides, and plowing deep enough to let the water seep far in."

This is a very striking presentation of the need of trees and the dire consequences of denuding an agricultural region of all its forests. Too many people think of trees as being beautiful while they stand, but useful only when turned into lumber. That false notion is to blame for much of the forest waste that has already taken place in this country and for much of the public and private indifference that still retards the development of a widespread, intelligent reforestation policy.

Georgia has not been alone in this error. Hardly a section of the country is not in great need of reform along this line.

The Top Job

The head of a big natural gas company recalls his first job. He was a barefooted farmer boy and the job was driving a herd of cattle six miles on a hot afternoon. His pay consisted of a piece of pie, a glass of milk and two cents. He says he has never forgotten how much that money meant to him.

Since that time he has held numerous other positions, among them being almost every possible job connected with a gas company, from scout and pipe fitter to president. And this is how he describes his present position at the top:

"It's not a dizzy height. The only difference is that there is a little more work to do, a great deal more responsibility, and an endless demand for tact. One must be more than ever considerate of the other fellow's feelings."

"A little more work to do and a great deal more responsibility" are probably very close to the truth about any big job. They make the job big. But they are far from the common conception of the attributes of the place at the top. A good many people who are stuck considerably farther down the ladder are inclined to imagine that achievement of the top means a life of ease and the cessation of all further effort.

Perilous Mild Weather

A mail carrier was recently lost for two weeks in the Peace River region of the Canadian northwest. Almost everybody south of the Canadian boundary line would probably jump to the conclusion that the postman was undoubtedly snow-bound, caught in a terrific blizzard or something of the sort. Such was not the case.

When he finally came into the town of Peace River it was learned that he had been delayed by "mild weather." At a certain place the winter route ordinarily crosses a frozen stream, using the ice for bridge. This time instead of ice there was a swiftly flowing stream. The carrier was forced to make a long detour and cut a trail for 100 miles through the bush to make a safe crossing.

Here is subject for a new type of movie scenario, perhaps showing the royal mounted police battling with the adverse forces of mild weather in the relentless pursuit of their man.

Hitherto an artist announcing a "farewell tour" has rarely qualified as the subject of Diogenes' search. Maybe Mischa Elman, violinist, is different. He played in Toronto, Canada, the other evening and called it his "farewell-for-three-years" appearance.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 10.—A tourist may see anything here from a sand flea to an elephant. Looking out across the lawn from under a palm tree where I write (A Hemadec, Alvin, and wire my regards to the polar in the Bronx zoo) I see a lumbering elephant drawing a load of hay.

He trumpets glee or woe, as the case may be, at intervals. The sudden growth of Miami offers amusing sidelights. Asking a traffic cop the location of a certain street, he replied: "I don't know it. I've only been here six months."

People who have been here three years intimate they helped Flagler lay the first rail. Five years makes an old settler. Boosting is common. The prosperous in any community are invariably boosters whether in Miami, Los Angeles or Kamchatka. It becomes a natural and admirable trait.

A town may often be judged best by birds of passage. If the picking is good they remain. If bad they knock and fly away. They are usually truthful, for they have nothing to lose. Right now Miami has many of these migratory birds, so the picking must be good.

Miami's chief lure, of course, is climate and that, mesdames et messieurs, is enough to stabilize any community. The real estate boom may be a bubble or may not. I am not librating here to study economics or digest the usual chamber of commerce blarney. I am watching the people.

And the great majority are here to stay. That means Miami is here to stay. Or I am wrong again as usual. The sourest curmudgeon could scarcely resist the beauty of a Florida night when a dying sun spits red fire and chaste moon dapples the porticoes. It is only fair to say that after three days here and rather generous publicity over my arrival, no one has made a direct approach to sell real estate, but that may be because realtors know the financial standing, if any, of the average reporter.

The hotels are smart and summery. The verandahs offer a vista of tropical vegetation. Nearly all the swankiest inns are on the American plan. This cramps the style of those who dine on a toothpick and a glass of water and strut in the lobby. At the average first-class hotel the rate is $25 a day which, everything considered, is not much higher than New York. As I am living at a rented house on Miami Beach, I do not know the hotels at first hand, but service is reported good.

Pointing up north, is bad etiquette except to select French pastry. Down here it is extended to pointing at real estate plots. Everybody points.

The real estate salesmen are the brick types who sell bonds in New York. Their method is oblique. They do not want to sell. They merely want you to see and they will take you in their high powered motor cars for the view. Often I am told they never suggest a sale. They merely let the impression sink in. If it bears fruit, well and good. If not, some 20 trains a day roar in with new prospects.

Not that it interests me, but one cannot help noticing Miami Beach has not bathing suit regulations. The ladies may expose their legs, limbs, or whatever they call them this season, without censorship. A walk along some sections of the beach gives the flavor of a musical revue, especially around tea time. The sun down here somehow or other does not tan the ladies. And the men only slightly.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Working for the Government.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 10.—Something more than a ripple of surprise—almost a wave of indignation—went over the country at the recent announcement as to the number of people on the public payroll of the nation. It was stated that for every ten persons in business or private employment there is one who draws his sustenance from the public by holding a job under the federal, state or local governments.

The average pay of these public servants was estimated at $1,500 per annum, which would make an average burden of $150 per capita which those who get their incomes in other ways must pay for the privilege of being governed. And the salaries of office holders of one kind and another represent only part of the total cost of government.

That public office is still regarded as a private snap is evidenced by the grand rush that is constantly on for appointive positions, as well as by the keen rivalry whenever an elective office is to be filled.

Only officers of campaign committees and presidents, senators, representatives, governors, mayors and other officials having patronage to dispense, have a real conception of the widespread desire there is among Americans to become job-hunters. They are besieged by hungry hordes until life becomes a burden to them, and that indefinite but potent force known as "influence" is brought to bear on them in a thousand and one ways.

Unfortunately they do not keep records of the number and variety of applications for appointments they receive. Hence there are no authentic statistics available that would show what the proportion of public employees of one kind and another would be if all the would-bes could get what they wanted. That it would be far above one in ten is, however, obvious.

Most of the place-seekers hope to better themselves financially by getting attached to a public payroll, but members of congress say that a surprisingly large percentage of them are better off than they would be if they secured the jobs for which they apply. In many instances men are willing to abandon businesses and private positions with better prospects and better pay than are held out by the government service, and this for no ascertainable good reason other than the imaginary prestige that attaches to being rewarded for political activity.

Civil Service Records. It is possible to get something of an idea as to the extent of the desire for government employment from the records of the United States Civil Service Commission. During the last fiscal year the number of persons examined by the commission was 216,135. The total number of appointments during the year to positions in the classified service of the federal government was 48,804.

Manifestly every position for which there was a vacancy was filled, so it is shown that there were more than four times as many applicants as there were jobs available. If that ratio holds with respect to places outside the federal classified service and those under the state and local governments, then it would seem that fully one-half the adult population of the country is ready and anxious to serve the other half if the taxpayers will foot the bills.

Of the fortunate who were inducted into positions under Uncle Sam, 11,404, or 23.3 per cent, were beneficiaries of the veteran preference acts. Since these laws were passed in 1919 as a means of rewarding World War veterans—giving them a decided advantage over other applicants—approximately 370,000 of these claims for preference in appointment to positions in the federal classified service have been allowed, and of the veterans who applied for examination more than 91,000 have received appointment.

The number of different occupations or kinds of positions for which examinations were held by the commission during the year was 979, in addition to those held for mechanical trades and similar jobs. This would indicate that Uncle Sam has a job for some one in almost every line of activity, provided he can pass a fairly rigorous test and demonstrate his qualifications.

During the year the commission distributed almost five million information circulars, application forms, and cards. The number of visitors to the information office in Washington was 109,125 as against 84,401 for the preceding year, and the number of letters and other communications received in the application division, aside from application forms, was 354,385 as compared with 299,779 for 1924. This may be taken as a revelation of Uncle Sam's growth in popularity as a prospective employer.

Urges Merit System Extension.

The commission says that the merit system has demonstrated its necessity and usefulness during four decades of practical application in nation, state, and city, not merely as a means of abolishing party patronage, but as operating in the public interest in securing efficiency and economy in government.

"We urge its extension," says the commission, "to apply to the selection, tenure, pay and promotion of all non-political employees. An adequate employment system is more vital to government than it is to industry."

The recommendation is made that the next step in the removal of postmasterships from patronage should be the passage of one of the many bills now before congress which would place all postmasters within the classified service, abolish the four-year term, and do away with the confirmation by the senate of postmastership appointments. It is argued that only in this way can these offices be taken out of politics and become in fact as they are in legal purpose mere business agencies of the government.

The further point is made that these positions should be more generally open to promotion to the end that the federal service may offer a career to aspiring youth comparable to outside employment.

Prohibition enforcement jobs will be brought into the classified service if congress has due regard for the judgment of the Civil Service Commission. The commission does not, however, think that present holders of places in the rum-chasing branch of the government should be covered into the classified service by any legislation which congress may enact.

This would suggest that in the opinion of the commission there are now some individuals in the prohibition enforcement service who should not enjoy the life tenure and security that go with positions protected by the civil service law.

The commission also wants the position of deputy collectors of internal revenue restored to the competitive classified service.

"Only an efficient, honest, and experienced force can execute the internal revenue laws in such a way as to prevent evasions and violations, which result in loss of much revenue," it declares, "and only the merit system will assure such a force."

Among the things that don't function are blue laws, scar tissue and nice rules in time of war.—Youngstown Vindicator.

AUCTION BRIDGE RULES ARE REVISED; ALL HONORS GIVEN EQUAL VALUE

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—A revision of the rules of auction bridge toward simplified scoring was announced today, following a conference of experts last Saturday. Milton C. Work, chairman of the committee on rules of the Whist Club of New York and representative of the American Whist league, the Knickerbocker Whist club and the New York Bridge Whist club, attended the conference.

The scoring of honors was changed to give all honors, regardless of suits, an equal value. No change was made in honors at no trump. The following rule was adopted:

Honors are scored in the honor score of the side to which they are dealt; their value is not changed by doubling or redoubling. All honors held by each side are scored according to the following table:

0 in one hand, 3 in the other, count 30 points.
1 in one hand, 2 in the other, count 30 points.
1 in one hand, 3 in the other, count 40 points.
2 in one hand, 2 in the other, count 40 points.

2 in one hand, 3 in the other, count 50 points.
0 in one hand, 4 in the other, count 80 points.
1 in one hand, 4 in the other, count 90 points.
0 in one hand, 5 in the other, count 100 points.
A revision of the revoke rules also was made so as to make the penalty one trick, to be scored by the innocent side, eliminating the former penalty of 50 cents. The revoking side may score only honors held for the hand.

WAR LETTER, SEVEN YEARS LATE, ARRIVES

Pershing's Note From Trenches Reaches
Newspaper Man.

LAUDS SCRIBE

Missive is Prized
by Bert
Ford.

BOSTON, Feb. 10—A world war letter arrived here today from the trenches in France—seven years late, but welcome and prized.

The letter was written by General John J. Pershing, commander in chief of the A. E. F., from "G. H. Q. M." at Chaumont March 18, 1919, to Bert Ford, accredited war correspondent, representing International News Service and the hundreds of newspapers it serves throughout the world.

General Pershing, in the letter, expressed appreciation of himself, staff, and troops for the "adequate and accurate information" presented to the American public by Ford in his International News Service dispatches.

As a representative of International News Service, Ford had been in the combat eighteen months with the American, French and British forces on the Western front. After the Armistice he went into Germany with the American army of occupation.

Officer delivers letter. Learning that Ford was about to leave Coblenz and the A. E. F., to interview President Woodrow Wilson, on his arrival at Brest, to report developments at the peace conference in Paris and later to sail home with the Yankee division, General Pershing dispatched the personal letter, which missed Ford by a day in Coblenz. Then it suffered the adversity and oblivion of other army mail and baggage. It finally came to Ford today through an army intelligence officer. The letter follows:

"My Dear Mr. Ford:
It gives me a great deal of pleasure to express to you for myself, my staff and the troops, our appreciation of the services you have rendered to the army and to the American public, during your stay with us in France.

"Coming to us as you did in March, 1918, you were with the American front line troops continuously, with the exception of three months last summer, when you were with the British. During that time you won golden opinions from officers, correspondents and men, and we are indeed sorry to see you leave.

"I believe you had exceptional opportunities for observing and as a representative of the International News Service, I am glad to feel that you ably fulfilled your duty of giving our people adequate and accurate information of the troops.

"With warmest personal regards, believe me, very truly yours, John J. Pershing."

Stillmans Make Peace for Childrens' Sake

James A. Stillman, former president of the National City Bank, New York, largest U. S. financial institution, and his wife, "Fifi" Potter, are in Paris patching up their marital troubles, which have been providing lurid newspaper reading for many months, for the sake of their children. Two photos at top show Mrs. Stillman as aged since the suit began. Left photo was taken at time of filing; right picture shows her as she is now. The four Stillman children, "Bud," Mrs. Henry Davison, Baby Guy, and Alexander; Fred Beauvais, Indian guide named by Stillman as co-respondent; and Mrs. Florence Leeds, named by Mrs. Stillman as co-respondent, are also seen.

Mary Lewis, New Opera Star, Only Desires to Be Herself

Like Mimi in Her Paris
Garret, American Girl
Says "I'm Happy in My Little Home."

NEW YORK — "I'm just like 'Mimi' in her garret," Mary Lewis said when her visitor got to the top floor rear apartment at No. 3 East Forty-seventh street. But Mimi in a Paris house was very different from a successful young American opera star living in a New York walk-up with broad staircases and thick carpets because she wants to. Yet, it is fitting that a star should dwell on fitting.

Mary Lewis loves to be identified with "Mimi" because that role in La Boheme marked her debut last Wednesday afternoon at the Metropolitan. But she doesn't like to be compared to any other singers. "Why can't people speak of anyone's voice or looks without saying, 'She resembles this one' or 'She sings like that one'—it makes me furious. I want to be judged on what I do and what I am."

Likes Hard Work. It is a fact, however, that Miss Lewis was so successful she got sick. Hurrying home to her house after the performance, the new star finally gave up to the enormous strain that had preceded her debut for a month, of working—and waiting. "Rosa Ponselle told me she was ill for a week after her debut. It's the excitement, I suppose. But it's worth it."

"Sitting here in my little home I am so happy. It has meant hard work and will mean constant attention to work above all else. But I like that work and my home."

Loves Her House. "I love my house and other people's houses. I don't like parties unless they're given in some one's home. It makes a different atmosphere. But I can't go to many parties now. I have to be very good and think of my voice and of getting enough rest." Only a few years ago Mary Lewis—now only 25—was singing popular songs in The Greenwich Village Follies. But back in the singer's mind were remembrances of the glamorous Geraldine Farrar she had heard sing at the Metropolitan and a great desire to go and do likewise. Since then there have been three years of study abroad and Mary Lewis, American prima donna emerged. But to go back.

Was Choir Singer. Just eight years after Mary had left choir singing in Little Rock, Ark., to join a musical comedy, she received a contract with Mr. Gatti-Casazza of the Metropolitan, which stipulates that star parts only are to be offered this beautiful young singer. The gap between choir and opera house was bridged by determination and saving money.

Took Precautions. This precaution made it possible to change from one place to another where better opportunities loomed up. In time this same system of preparedness made it possible to come to New York and follow Farrar's footsteps.

After the first audition with "Gatti," Miss Lewis was offered a contract which she refused, insisting upon European study to fit herself for the roles.

Mary Lewis could easily win beauty prizes if she cared for such frivolous enterprises. She is tall, slim, with blue eyes, wavy golden hair and dimples.

JUDGE WOLFE ASSIGNED HERE

Fullon County Jurist to Begin Duties on February 22.

Chief Justice C. T. Marshall of the state supreme court has assigned Judge Fred H. Wolfe of Wauseon, Fulton county, to preside in common pleas court No. 2 in this county, beginning the week of Feb. 22, according to word received from Columbus by Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine.

This is the second time Judge Wolfe has been assigned to this county. He was first assigned in 1924 and at that time presided in No. 1 court room when the case of Eddie Johnson, colored, charged with murder, which took place in the railroad yards at Borings Crossing, Wellsville, was called to trial. Johnson was convicted, and sentenced for life to the Ohio penitentiary. He later died in jail.

OWNERS OF DOGS HIT BY NEW LAW

Dozens of applications for dog licenses are being rejected daily by Deputy Tax Collector Randall Hamilton for the reason that owners of dogs who are forwarding money for such licenses have failed to inclose the proper amount with their applications.

It now costs $2 for a license for a male dog and $4 for a license for a female dog. The present cost of a dog license is $1 higher than that which prevailed up to and including Jan. 20. Since then a penalty of $1 has to be collected under the new law.

At the close of business Tuesday evening, 4,445 dog licenses had been issued, and on more than 500 of these licenses which have been issued since Jan. 20 the penalty of $1 has been collected.

When an applicant for a dog license forwards $1 for a male and $3 for a female dog, a form letter is returned to the applicant, advising that the license will be forwarded as soon as the penalty of $1 has been remitted.

Marriage Licenses.
A marriage license has been issued to Guy A. Sankey, a machinist residing at Salem, but formerly residing at Bellville, O., and Miss Lorena Swennington, a stenographer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hans C. Swennington, also of Salem. They were married by Rev. George Beaver.
John Andrew Little, of Salem, and Wilda Frances Allen, a telephone operator at Salem and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Allen, have been granted a marriage license. They are to be married by Rev. Bough.

To File Answer.
Anna Moldovan, who filed an action in common pleas court Dec. 19, 1924, to recover $400 on a note claimed due her from Matei J. Konja, the court has granted the plaintiff until Feb. 27 to file a reply.

Leave to answer at once has been granted by the court to the defendant, in the case of Barnwell & Co. against the Philadelphia Motor Tire company, which is an action in attachment.

Tax Cases Dismissed.
Two delinquent tax cases that have been pending in common pleas court for several years have been dismissed from the record by Judge James G. Moore at the costs of the plaintiff. These actions were filed in 1922 and 1923. They were presented by the then county treasurer, W. R. Phillips, against C. H. Wiltse and P. M. Smith, and also against Daniel M. Smith.

Judgment Asked.
The East Palestine Building & Loan association in an action filed in court by Attorney L. M. Kyes asks judgment against Robert Heads and Sarah Heads for $2,431.98. The petition seeks the marshaling of liens, the foreclosure of a mortgage on certain property in East Palestine and other equitable relief.

Divorce Action Filed.
Declaring that his wife has been guilty of gross neglect of duty, an action for divorce has been filed in common pleas court by Allen Cline against his wife, Hazel Cline, now said to be residing at Newell, W. Va.

Lightning rods allow the current to pass or fuse off from the points, leaving the building in a normal electrical condition, yet there is a possibility of a lightning stroke which if it should occur would be much lighter than without any means of protection, and the rods should carry this stroke to the ground.

Women 45 Years Ago--and Now

Back in the days of 1881, when the Potters National Bank was founded, few women engaged in business. They confined their activities strictly to the home.

But times have changed. Today, pursuits once reserved for men alone—politics, business, finance, even war—are not without feminine representation; and women have proved themselves capable in every field.

We are privileged to serve a large number of women in this community, and we are proud of the reputation we have gained among them for friendly, helpful service. We will appreciate the opportunity to serve you as a depositor of "A Progressive Bank for Progressive People in a Progressive Community."

METHUSELAH'S WIFE

THE STORY OF A GIRL
By Edgar Poe
Who Married For Money

SEVENTY-ONE.

Mrs. Brent Daly stepped out of her dressing room and walked resolutely into Harwood House. Noble had been shut up there for three days, denying himself to all callers, and refusing to accede to urgent appeals of his daughters and sister to answer the telephone. She was determined to see him and express her thoughts.

"I am sorry, Mrs. Daly, but he won't allow me to admit anyone," Louis told her, very respectfully.

The visitor glowered at him, and moved determinedly nearer the portal. "Louis, are you going to throw me out?"

"Well, er—no, Mrs. Daly, but—"

"Louis, I am going to enter this house, and I am going to see my brother." With that she pushed him aside with her hands, and stalked into the hall and up the stairs.

"The door is locked, madam," the butler called up from below.

Mrs. Daly paused. "Louis, you have no doubt, a master key, or a duplicate of all the keys in the house," Louis answered before giving his answer, and she pressed him. "Haven't you?"

"Yes, Mrs. Daly, but—"

"Well, unless Noble Harwood's door."

"Yes, madam."

The noise of the key in the lock aroused a voice from within. "Who's there? Who's there, I say? I told you not to come in here, Louis, unless I ordered you to."

Mrs. Daly beeliegedly elbowed the butler aside, and herself opened the door.

Her eyes were startled by the figure she saw standing before her in the room. Unshaven, his hair a mess, Noble was wearing a wrinkled dressing gown splashed with some of the contents of the many cups he evidently had been consuming. There were empty bottles upon a table, and the butts of many cigars.

"Well, Noble," she said, meeting his glance so relentlessly that his eyes fell.

"I don't care to see you, Nell," he replied, turning, "and I wish you would please go."

"I won't go, Noble Harwood, and you are going to listen to me. Sit down." She spoke as one born to command—a fact to which her husband would have testified.

"Well, Nell," he said, offering her a chair, and taking one himself, calmly. "I suppose you have a post-mortem to make and a sermon to deliver."

"Noble, having shown us that you are a fool, you are now proceeding to demonstrate conclusively that you are an idiot. Don't you realize what a picture you're making of yourself, shutting yourself up in this fashion? A fine sight you are. I suppose you've been here crying your heart out and diluting your whisky with tears. . . . She had talked herself into a fury.

"Now, now! Enough of this. I don't care what you think—or anyone else. . . . All of you ran away when I needed you. Yes, all of you." He spoke bitterly.

"Oh, so that's it. Having shamed us all, you think we ought to lick your wounds. You always were the most selfish, most conceited human that ever lived, Noble Harwood."

"I won't listen to this, Nell. I won't. Please get out. And I don't care if you ever return. Or anyone else."

Goaded, Nell Daly leaped up and stuck her face in his. "You're going to listen to all I have to say! Are you going to sulk here forever? Haven't you any vestige of backbone? Haven't you enough courage to show your face?"

Noble's cheeks were flaming. "Get out, I say, or I'll throw you out, so help me!"

His sister, not in the least daunted, stood squarely up before him. "You haven't nerve enough to lay hands on me, Noble Harwood, and you know it. You're a despicable coward."

For an electrical moment they glared at each other, fire flashed in Noble's eye, but his inclinations did not spring into action; something held him back.

"Please go, Nell, before I do something awful," he suddenly exclaimed, brokenly.

"Oh, I thought you were going to throw me out. The courageous Mr. Harwood, the greatest man in the state. Ha!"

Noble sat down. If only he could rid himself of this woman! His head was splitting. "Please go, Nell, I ask you, please," he appealed again.

Mrs. Daly sat down beside him, and her manner changed. She knew how to conquer Noble Harwood.

"Now, Noble, we can talk sensibly. What are you going to do about Laurel?"

"Oh, I don't know! I don't know!"

"Well, it's time for you to be thinking about it. . . . You know, of course, what her condition is?"

"Condition?"

"Yes," she eyed him strangely. "Surely you know she is with child?"

He regarded her blankly for a moment. "No—She—"

He couldn't speak. Yes, he knew now that it was true.

"Noble, I was opposed to your marriage to Laurel Harwood, but I'm going to see that you don't treat her as you did Mary."

Noble's grey eyes flashed. "I'll do as I damned please!"

NEW CHANDLER IS CONVENIENT

Needs Minimum of Attention—Everything Made Simple.

Automobile manufacturers have so perfected their product nowadays that an owner may tour for days without even touching the car except for water, oil and gasoline.

Nevertheless there comes a time when he must get busy or see that someone else does. "Chandler engineers have discounted this inevitable time by constantly overcoming some necessary point of adjustment under the car," says Victor Bressure, of the Tri-State garage, local Chandler dealers.

"Today any woman, who has not the mechanical knowledge to oil a sewing machine, may start on a long trip with perfect confidence of reaching her destination without trouble."

"Chandler engineers have recognized the fact that nothing could be of more importance than to reduce to a minimum, the necessity of wrench work and out of the way lubricating points," continued Bressure.

"The 1926 Chandler is evidence of their earnest endeavor to make the car not only powerful and economical in respect to upkeep, but also as care-free as possible."

"A simple turn of a valve on the left side of the motor drains the motor oil, doing away with one of the meanest duties in connection with the care of a car."

"There is a great tendency for motorists to buy a quart of oil, occasionally, at the filling station," said Bressure. "This means that they do not drain the old oil off, it's too much trouble on the usual car. Therefore, their motor never really gets clean oil."

"Chandler owners have learned better. They run their full filling of oil thousands of miles, and then drain the old oil off with the handy Chandler oil drain, and their motor is constantly being protected with perfectly clean oil."

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Every ship sailing from New York for Havana carried delegations of Americans inspired by a consuming thirst for liberty. But the Sibony carried Cubans bound today a delegation of famous Americans whose mission was inspired by a love of liberty less personal than patriotic.

The delegation was headed by Col. Carmi A. Thompson, of Cleveland, commander-in-chief of the United Spanish War Veterans, who on next Monday—the 28th anniversary of the sinking of the Maine by a mine in Havana harbor—will dedicate a monument erected by the Cuban government in honor of the 260 American sailors who lost their lives in that disaster.

Accompanying Col. Thompson were Congressman Harold Krutson, chairman of the house pensions committee; Congressman Thomas S. Butler, chairman of the house committee on naval affairs; Monsignor John Chidwick of New York, chaplain on the Maine at the time of the explosion; Senator Rice Means of Colorado, Colonel Winfield Scott, commissioner of pensions, and a large party including several past commanders of the United Spanish War Veterans.

"I believe this dedication takes place at a most fortunate time," said Col. Thompson on sailing, "as it may serve to attract the attention of the world to what American ideals and American friendship can accomplish."

"Those factions and elements abroad, who continue to deride America's professions and to cast suspicion on America's principles, cannot but admit that in the case of Cuba every American profession has been fulfilled and American principles have been applied with unchallenged success."

"When the Maine steamed into Havana harbor, January 24, 1898, its mission was one of protection of American lives. When the Maine was treacherously sunk, its mission was taken up by the entire American nation, and broadened to embrace the lives and liberties of our Cuban neighbors."

"In the war with Spain that followed, American ideals battled the same European ideas that plunged the world into war in 1914. But neither in 1898 nor in 1917, when we entered the world war, did we fight for greed or gain."

At the dedication of the Maine monument, which it has taken four years to erect, at a cost of $750,000, speakers, in addition to Col. Thompson, will be President Machado of Cuba, General Betancourt, president of the Cuban War Veterans' association; General Crowder, ambassador to Cuba, and Captain Watt Cluverius, who was an ensign on the Maine.

Wouldn't Take Thousand Dollars For His Experience

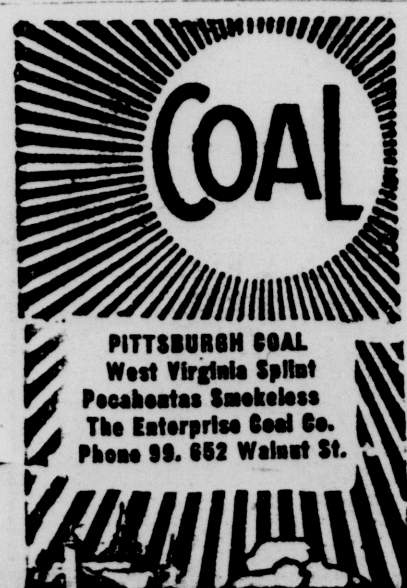

"I would not take a thousand dollars for the benefits I have received from Kadi-ok," said Mr. Fred Donath, well known proprietor of the N. & W. Hotel, Williamson, W. Va., to the Kadi-ok man recently. "Send suffering humanity to me; I'll be glad to tell my experience with Kadi-ok."

Why Mr. Donath is so enthusiastic in his praise is easily understood once you know of the misery it relieved him of. "My stomach was in terrible shape," he continued. "So much so that I was forced to go days without eating a bite. After taking the first bottle of Kadi-ok, I could eat meat and vegetables three times a day and heartily enjoy them, and now I can sleep the entire night fine. Kadi-ok is truly the master medicine."

It is especially recommended for ailments of the stomach, kidneys, and liver, loss of appetite, rheumatism, constipation, nervousness and general debility.

Kadi-ok is sold in East Liverpool at Mathews' Cut Rate Store and other drug stores.

County Class B. Cage Tournament to Be Staged In Salem

Six Schools Entered For Opening Rounds

Preliminary Clashes Carded for Feb. 26, With Finals on Following Day; Hugh McPhee, Youngstown and Dave Williams, Girard, Named as Officials for Meet.

SALEM, Feb. 10.—Six county Class B boys basketball teams have entered the annual tournament of smaller schools which will be staged in Salem High's neutral gym Feb. 26 and 27.

Faculty Manager R. P. Vickers of Salem High, who has been named official manager of the tournament, has received entries from Columbiana, East Palestine, Lisbon, East Fairfield, Rogers and Salineville.

It is likely that these six constitute the entire entry list, as Hanoverton has practically decided against entering the meet this year.

Two of the best officials in this part of the state, Hugh McPhee, of Youngstown, former Ohio State star, and Dave Williams, Girard High coach, and one of Newberry college's greatest athletic heroes, have been secured by Manager Vickers to handle the games.

Last year the Class B meet was held in Salem, and such large crowds attended a comfortable slice of the gate went to each team after all expenses were paid.

Teams which played here last year complimented Salem on its direction of the tournament, expressed satisfaction with the officiating, which was done by McPhee and Williams, and all made it known that they hoped Salem would stage the meet again this year.

Columbiana put forth a bid for this year's tournament, but the state athletic association ruled that as long as Salem is not a Class B school, the local neutral floor would be used.

State high schools are divided into two groups, Salem, East Liverpool and Willsville being in the Class A or larger school group.

Complete plans have not been made but it is fairly certain that the order of play will be two games here on the afternoon of Feb. 26, and two at night. The two teams surviving will meet in the finals the afternoon of Feb. 27.

Miss Wills Advised To Stay In Tourney

U. S. Lawn Tennis Officials Wire Instructions to American Girl Following Get-Rick-Quick Attempts to Capitalize Her Playing in Motion Picture Rights.

FAMOUS SALEM ATHLETE DIES AT AMES, IOWA

Frank R. Willaman Succumbs to Illness of Pneumonia.

FOLLOWING an illness of pneumonia, Frank R. Willaman, of Salem, freshman football coach and director of intramural athletics at Ames college, Iowa, and brother of Sam Willaman, who recently became a member of the Ohio State university coaching staff, died yesterday at Ames.

Both of the famous brothers were well known throughout Columbiana county and had a large number of friends in East Liverpool.

Willaman's burial is being shipped to Salem for burial.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Willaman of Lincoln avenue, Salem, and one of the most brilliant all-around athletes developed in the state.

Willaman was graduated from the high school in Salem with the class of 1916 and entered Ohio State university. Shortly after he had completed his course at Columbus he went to Iowa State to assist his brother, Sam, who was then head coach there. Sam Willaman was recently named field coach at Ohio State, his alma mater, and it was common talk that Frank was to be made head coach at Ames.

Frank was one of a family of three boys and one girl, all of whom were splendid athletes. At Salem High school he was for four years a member of the varsity football, basketball and track squads, and at Ohio State he developed into one of the best fullbacks in the history of the Western conference. His brother, Sam, before him, also had made gridiron history as a Buckeye back. A younger brother, Daniel, is now attending Ohio State after having won signal honors as an athlete in Salem, while a sister, Martha, now in school at Iowa State, was considered the greatest girl basketball player ever turned out in eastern Ohio.

East Liverpool Power five won its seventeenth clash in 19 starts last night on the M. E. court at Wellsville, defeating the Wellsville Epworth league team by a score of 36 to 12.

The Powers got away to a good start early in the engagement, leading by a score of 19-4 at the half, and maintained the pace during the remainder of the struggle.

The performance of Bucher, Menforth and Dickey featured the tilt.

The Powers are slated to play the fast Glenmore team Wednesday night on the Glenmore floor, and on Saturday they will tackle the Homer Laughlin 6 squad in the preliminary to the game between the Canton Jack Art Jewelers and the Heime Ex-Collegians.

The lineup: Powers. Epworth League. H. Dickey. F. Fogo. A. Mensforth. F. Grindell. O. Cunningham. C. DeTemple. E. Bucher. G. A. Fogo. Rockhold. G. Weekley. Power substitution. E. Wehrman. forward. W. Ashbaugh. center. I. Cunningham. guard. Epworth League. Springer. forward.

Special Rules For Next Series

Junior Loop Bans Resin—National Approves Its Use.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Distinctly overruled with the efforts of the Riviera to hippodrome the situation, the United States Lawn Tennis association, it was learned today, gladly would call the impending Wills-Lenglen duel no contest, if it could do so with offense neither to Miss Wills nor the rival nation. Courtesy to both, however, demands that this attitude find no public expression.

The governing body had its chance yesterday to relieve Miss Wills of the embarrassment brought on by get-rich-quick attempts to capitalize her every gesture abroad. The American champion used the facilities of the International News Service to cable Julian S. Myrick, chairman of the Davis Cup committee, for advice that exclusive moving picture rights to the big contest had been sold for $20,000.

This was the tennis association's chance to get Helen out from under. It couldn't risk the certain affront to France, however. The writer is not at liberty to make known the contents of the private cable sent Miss Wills but it can be safely said that she was not told to withdraw her entry. The message was couched in terms calculated to relieve her mind of the worries besetting her since those bright young men of southern France began to rally around the situation.

Sincere sympathy for the young American girl, and not fear that she may do something that would jeopardize her amateur standing, is behind the attitude of American officials.

"Helen simply don't know what she was letting herself in for when she started on her trip abroad," was the remark made today by an official who asked that his name be withheld. "She is young, sweet and innocent and naturally is bewildered by notoriety and attention the proposed match has caused. You know, Miss Wills is not the flapper type in the slightest and so she finds she cannot cope with those who would make use of her reputation to enrich themselves."

"She doesn't dare sign her name to anything for fear it will prove to be an endorsement of somebody's tennis equipment. If she wears a smart gown, they say some dressmaker gave it to her. For all I know, they might try to make capital of the fact that she occupies the same room at the hotel every night."

"It is too bad that Helen is not abroad as our official representative. She is paying her own expenses, you know, and really is outside our aid. If she wasn't, we could have had some one with experience on hand to help her. This isn't possible, however, until she joins the Wightman cup team in England and again comes under our protection."

That, apparently, will be a memorable moment for the United States Lawn Tennis association. As a matter of fact, if it could see its way clear to do so, it would cable Helen today to postpone the Lenglen meeting until the championships at Wimbledon, where stricter regulations would prevent anybody from capitalizing her ability.

TENNIS STARS IN NATIONAL MEET

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—This finest show of tennis talent ever to compete in a national indoor championship of the Brooklyn Heights invitation tournament at the heights casino will be seen when the matches begin on Monday.

The entries include all three members of the American team that will play the French in the international match late this month, and practically all of the leading players now in this country. William T. Tilden, 2nd, Vincent Richards, Olympic singles and doubles champion, and Francis "Doc" Hunter of Beckley, West Va., the three members of the international team, will play. The Alonso brothers, Manuel and Jose, members of the Spanish Davis cup team, are among the others entered.

Ethel Lackie and Sybil Bauer Defend Laurels Today.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 10.—With three world's records shattered in the first day's competition, America's star mermaids here were hopeful of breaking other marks today in the women's National Amateur Athletic association swimming championship meeting.

Agnes Geraghty, of New York, won the 50-yard breast stroke championship, breaking another world record with time of 35.35 seconds.

AVENUE QUINT CAGE VICTORS

Beat Chester Passers in Last Quarter Rally.

After coming within a single point of tying the score in the third quarter following a fruitful rally, the Chester Presbyterians fell down in the final period of their clash last night with the Penn Avenue passers at the M. P. gym and finally lost by a 38 to 21 count.

The East Enders ran up a big margin in the first half, the score at the halfway point being 14-4. In the third period the West Virginians began to find the basket, the standing at the end of the period being 19-18. In the windup stanza, however, the Pennsylvania avenue crew showered the hoops and doubled their own score to win.

POWER

We Claim Unchallenged Supremacy In Hill Climbing

Last week in this space we issued an open challenge to any standard make of car at any list price to stage a hill climbing contest to determine the relative power of the Star Car with that of any other make.

To date we remain unchallenged and for that reason we claim supremacy in Power for Star Cars as well as superior ability to pull through mud and sand, and to get you there and back, comfortably and economically.

Former Griffith Star in "Soul-Fire" At the American

Walter Long's performance of a brutal sailor in "Soul-Fire," Richard Barthelmess' new First National vehicle at the American theater, is likely to take its place beside Long's most brilliant screen characterizations.

Long first came into prominence as Gus, the renegade negro of DeW. Griffith's "Birth of a Nation." He joined the Griffith forces a year or so before the making of the Civil war epic and he was seen in "The Escape" and other now famous productions of this director.

Long has contributed many interesting performances to the films, none of them better remembered than his tough taxi driver, seeking to collect his sixty dollar fare, in the late Wallace Reid's "The Dictator."

It used to be that man could support a family on half as much as he can now. But that was before cash registers were invented.—Athens Messenger.

Oregon city teacher fired because she married pupil. Maybe she wanted to make sure he would stay at home nights and study.—Canton News.

POLICE SEIZE
THIRD STILL

James Violo Arrested on Liquor Charge.

Marking their third successful raid within a week and a half, police last night confiscated a 40-gallon still and complete equipment at 1221 Anderson avenue and placed James Violo, who rents the house, under arrest on a charge of having implements and equipment for the manufacture of liquor in his possession.

Although not as large as the two other stills confiscated the equipment taken last night is probably more complete and modern in every respect, authorities declared.

A truck was used to haul the catch to the police station. The outfit included the still itself, 35 gallons of liquor, 20 barrels of mash, 400 pounds of sugar, two hot plates, pans, buckets, hose and other paraphernalia.

The still was not operating when the police entered the house shortly after midnight. Violo, however, was arrested later in the night. The owner of the house, from whom Violo rents, is in Cleveland.

Violo was released on bond of $1,000 for hearing Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

The reading party included Officers Newton, Hurd, Pugh, Kinney and Oyster.

BAXTER BILL
AIDS SCHOOLS

Board Here Acts to Clear Up Last Year's Bills.

As a result of provisions of the Baxter bill, the Wellsville board of education will be able to pay all bills up to December 31, 1926, by the issuance of notes, and get off on the present year with a clean slate so far as the new revenue is concerned.

Action to take advantage of the Baxter bill provisions was approved by the board at its meeting last night. Clerk C. A. McLaughlin has taken the matter up with the state auditor. City Solicitor S. C. Lucecock next will have to draft a resolution making the action legal.

The Best Cough Syrup
Is Home-made

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have best cough medicine you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

The result will give either Chester or Wellsville a first victory of the season.

Neither the locals nor the Hancock countians have been able to break through into the winning column this season, despite close scores on several occasions, and with the two squads pretty evenly matched, a hot contest is anticipated.

Bad Luck and the Devil
Pursued Him

"I don't think any one has had more bad luck and sickness than I have. In 1905 I had two ribs, an arm and collar bone broken in a railroad accident. Then I had pneumonia. After recovering I crossed a pasture when a bull chased me, tossed me over the fence and broke my right leg. In 1910 I had typhoid fever; since then severe stomach and liver trouble, which no medicine or doctor touched until two years ago I got a bottle of MAYR'S, 'One Dose Will Convince,' which proved the first ray of light in thirteen years." It is a simple harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Jesse D. Holloway and Druggists Everywhere.

Nude Roman Potency.
Some Starve, Some Don't.
Some Can Drink.
More Postoffice Flying.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.)

Copyright, 1926, by the Star Co.

The Popolo Di Roman says Mussolini's magnificent defiance of Germany must not be dissected or discussed. "It is necessary that it remain with us in its nude Roman potency." It is possible to push the Roman potency too far. Italy's plan for regaining domination of the Mediterranean, which nude Roman potency won by the destruction of Carthage, causes anxiety and anger in France, Spain, England, Russia and Greece. If war should come it would be a matter of flying machines, coal, money and especially of international alliances.

The Italians are wonderful fighters. No nation excels them in courage. But you cannot win modern wars with fine phrases, nude Roman potency, or unlimited courage. If your enemies combine against you.

Mrs. Mary Harrington, of Mahanoy City, Pa., had several children. Her husband, a coal miner on strike, went to look for work in another town. She gave her children what food she had and she died of hunger.

One advantage is with the mine owners. No matter how long a strike lasts, mine owners, their wives and children never starve. That's an advantage, yet pushed too far, it can become a disadvantage.

When told that the poor had no bread, Marie Antoinette wondered why they did not eat cake. Later she and her husband stopped eating, on the guillotine. She was only a poor fool.

An able statesman of her time suggested that the people eat glass. The people stuffed his mouth with glass.

USE LIFE LINE IN RESCUE AS SMACK IS LOST IN BLIZZARD

Two Fall Into Raging Sea, Another Washed Overboard.

BOAT HITS ROCKS

Thrilling Marine Drama Is Enacted Near Gloucester, Mass.

GLoucester, Mass., Feb. 10.—Over an improvised life-line, one end tied to the shattered spar of the wrecked Gloucester fishing smack Ralph Brown, and the other held by three seamen standing in the howling blizzard on the rocks of Brier Neck, Captain Alvaro Quadros and 18 men reached shore in safety today.

Two men attempted to make the perilous trip when the line was slack and fell into the raging sea and were drowned. A third, who clung to the main boom, was washed overboard before his men reached him.

The dead are Manuel Janeiro, John Bragata and Joseph Lopes, all of Gloucester.

Schooner's Back Snapped.

Blinded by the swirling snow of a howling northeast storm that swept the coast and running to port in the teeth of a 50-mile-an-hour blow, the skipper of the two-masted haddock lost his course and piloted his ship up on the treacherous off-shore shoals.

One by one the fishermen came ashore over the slender life line while the men ashore risked their lives on the rocks with the angry sea beating around them, the salt spray biting their faces and the swirling snow nearly blinding them.

Meanwhile, Captain Hilton Acker and six seamen of the Gloucester coast guard station were performing an act of heroism by putting out in the blow in the motor lifeboat. The lifeboat nearly went under several times and was saved only by bailing.

First news of the wreck came when a fisherman, almost exhausted, stumbled to the door of a cottage at Good Harbor.

The man was exhausted. His face

$25,526.50 Collected In Auto Licenses Here By J. S. Hilbert

Deputy Commissioner Issues 3,401 Sets of Plates—46 Applicants Are Non-residents.

Collections in automobile license fees at the East Liverpool station—the George H. Owen & company—up to the close of business on Saturday amounted to $25,526.50. Deputy Commissioner J. S. Hilbert announced today.

Three thousand, four hundred and one sets of plates have been issued. Of the applicants all but 46 were residents of Columbiana county.

Pleasure car plates, numbering 2,852, have netted $12,978, while 436

truck plates brought in $11,517. Fifty-nine pleasure-commercial cars were licensed, adding $672. There were six trailers, which cost $53.60, one motorcycle at $2.50 and one side-car at $1.50. Thirty-one transfers were also issued, the revenue being $59.90. Six duplicate tags were also issued at $1 each, or a total of $6, while one motorist secured a duplicate certificate at a cost of $1.

The 46 cars licensed from outside counties netted $235. This money is forwarded to the auditor in the county in which the machines are owned.

The revenue from tags this year has been reduced because of the cut in the fees for pleasure cars.

Funds collected are turned into the automobile license division of the county auditor's office, and later disbursed among the respective subdivisions.

REPUBLICAN STATE COMMITTEE DEBATES $70,000 DEBT AT MEET

Well Dressed Woman Of 1926 Will Wear Only Two Garments

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—The well dressed woman of 1926 will wear less clothes, it was announced today.

Two garments are plenty, Katherine Cunningham, Chicago designer, told the twenty-first annual convention of corsetiers.

One garment, she said, would be a combination which serves the purpose of brassiere, corset and "undie."

Garment number two is the outer dress—there is no more. "The corset as we knew it 20 years ago has disappeared never to return," said Miss Cunningham.

Rev. A. H. O'Brien Preaches at Meet In Baptist Church

Rev. A. H. O'Brien occupied the pulpit of the First Baptist church, last evening, substituting for Rev. Mell Morris, Greensboro, Md., evangelist, who was called back to his home to conduct funeral services for a member of his church.

Rev. Mr. O'Brien's subject was "The Day of Pentecost." Three persons accepted the invitation. Members of the Salvation Army, who were accompanied by their band, were special guests.

Rev. Mr. Morris is expected to return here today and to occupy the pulpit at tonight's service. He will also preach Thursday and Friday evenings, returning home Saturday. The Salvation Army band will attend tonight's service.

Rumors of Fight Over Deficit Are Heard in Lobbies of Columbus Hotels—Discuss November Campaign.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 10.—Discussion of plans for a huge money raising campaign to tide the party through the coming November elections and to wipe out a deficit of approximately $70,000 still hanging over from 1924 loomed as the most important matter to come before the Republican state central committee as committeemen gathered here in preparation for the meeting this afternoon.

Hotel lobbies buzzed with rumors of a fight over the deficit and it was generally agreed that this must be disposed of before funds for the coming campaign can be discussed.

The deficit is an old sore in the sides of the committeemen, many of whom feel that the committee proper should disavow the debt and pass it on to the Davis campaign committee for disposal.

The campaign committee was named following the nomination of Harry J. Davis in the last general election. At Davis' request, Clarence J. Neal, of Cleveland, was named chairman. This committee, Republican headquarters asserts, incurred all indebtedness.

While there is no money, it is believed the majority realizes that regardless of what faction contracted it, the organization must pay the score in order to retain its credit and good will.

With the November campaign now formally under way, the organization feels that some definite and immediate step should be taken.

FEVER DEATH RATE CUT HERE BY PURE WATER, D. H. RUPP SAYS

City Chemist Speaks at County Medical Meeting.

LUNCHEON HELD

Physicians Hear Address at Session in Larkins Annex.

East Liverpool's typhoid fever rate has been decreased to a minimum since the establishment of the municipal filtration plant, City Chemist Daniel H. Rupp told members of the Columbiana County Medical society at a luncheon in the Larkins annex, Market street, today.

Rupp, who spoke on "Public Water Supplies and Public Health," characterized the water work plant here as one of the "best" in the country.

The meeting was in charge of Dr. J. M. King of Wellsville. Physicians from East Liverpool, Wellsville, Chester and Salem attended.

The society plans a demonstration in physical examination at the March meeting, which will be held at Lisbon. The physicians say that every man, woman and child should undergo examination at a regular interval, just as a motor car is inspected by a mechanic to be kept in A-1 condition.

Rupp said in part:

"As all of you know the source of East Liverpool's water supply is the Ohio river, the water works plant being situated above the city on the Pennsylvania-Ohio state line.

"The intake pier is situated on the northern side of the river several hundred feet from shore. It has three gates—one for low water stage extending to deep water—one for pool stage and another for flood stage. The water flows by gravity through pier and intake pipe to the suction well.

Here the two 5,000-gallon low lift centrifugal pumps take suction and pump the water to the adjacent filtration plant, which has a nominal capacity of 6 million gallons per day.

The water from the filters is collected in a 700,000 gallon clear well. From here it is pumped by two 5,000-gallon displacement pumps to the low service reservoirs and also two 2,500-gallon displacement pumps to the high service reservoirs and stand pipe. The East End and lower side of the city are served direct from the pumps, the main portion of the

"CHURCH NIGHT" IS OBSERVED

"Church Night" was observed in connection with the revival service at the First Methodist Episcopal church, last evening. The crowd was the largest since the special series of meetings started.

The augmented choir, led by Prof. Charles Wetland, of Aurora, Ill., rendered special music. Rev. Dr. Frank G. Fowler's subject was "He Knocked for Admittance." A group picture of the choir and church officials was taken at the close of the service.

Tonight will be "Family Night." Prof. Wetland will give a present to the largest family attending the meeting. Dr. Fowler's subject will be "Two Ways."

DONALD GLASS, 21, 1145 Clark avenue, Wellsville, conductor, cut and bruised; in City hospital.

ROY NICHOLSON, 34, 330 Eighteenth street, Wellsville, motorman, lacerated and bruised; in City hospital.

ROBERT REIL, 25, East End, operator of wrecked one-man type car, shoulder injured; removed to his home.

RONALD WHITE, 40, St. Clair avenue, motorman, bruised and cut; injuries dressed at hospital.

All of the injured were seated on the north side of the car, next to the hillside, when the crash occurred. The upper side of the car was torn out, but the car remained on the rails and was operated to the East End car barn under its own power.

Rock Loosened by Thaws.

The boulder, loosened by yesterday's rains and thaws and the snow which fell during the night, completely blocked both the east and west-bound tracks. All street car traffic in the East Liverpool district, with the exception of the Newell and Y. & O. lines, were tied up for almost three hours as a result of the accident. The eastbound track was cleared to allow cars to go through at 7:45 o'clock this morning, but it will be evening before the west bound track is open, traction company officials said.

The car, which is used mainly in transporting "early run" traction workers to the Pennsylvania avenue car barn, left East End at 3:30 o'clock this morning. It operated to Wooster's stop in Wellsville and was making the trip back to the car barn when the slide occurred.

The rock crashed from the hillside just as the car was passing. Many passengers jumped as the boulder rolled down the hillside.

The injured street car men were removed to the City hospital in automobiles, where they were attended by Drs. C. H. Bailey and F. F. Davis. Reil and White were the less seriously hurt.

White reported at the car barn that his injuries were dressed and started his morning run. Reil was taken to his home in East End. Fletcher Glass nor Nicholson was seriously injured.

DEATH, INJURY AND PROPERTY DAMAGE ARE REPORTED AS HEAVY SNOWFALL BLANKETS OHIO, PENNSYLVANIA, EAST AND NEW ENGLAND

Columbiana county roads were piled high with drifts today as the result of the snow storm which swept the Ohio Valley last night, leaving the countryside covered with a six-inch mantle.

All road equipment was in service today in an effort to clear the main arteries. Drifts to the depth of two and three feet were reported to the county surveyor's office in Lisbon.

Street Commissioner Oliver Buzzard pressed his entire force into service here in cleaning gutters in the downtown district and opening crossings at street intersections.

Officials of the Ohio Bell Telephone company reported little damage to their lines. A few toll lines were out of service, while a few complaints were received from local subscribers.

Trains on Schedule.

Passenger trains on the C. & P. division were operating on schedule, according to attaches at the local ticket office. Interurban cars to Beaver, Steubenville and Salem were only a few minutes off schedule despite the handicaps under which the cars were being operated.

Lawrence Copeland, United States government observer at Millport, estimated the snowfall at five and one-half inches. The average depth of snow which covers the ground now, according to Copeland, is between eight and nine inches.

In order to conserve the gas for domestic consumers, the Manufacturers' Light and Heat company this morning placed a ban on the use of gas for kiln firing. About 25 kilns, which are burning today, will be out tomorrow.

There is no coal shortage here.

Two Injured In Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 10.—Clevelanders awoke this morning to find the city covered with a blanket of snow more than three inches in thickness, which swirling winds in some cases has piled into drifts three feet or more high. The snow was still falling at 8 o'clock. The storm brought with it a drop in temperature to 13 degrees above zero.

Street car traffic was hampered, and some automobiles were stalled, interurban and steam trains were reported running behind schedules.

Wire communication was also hampered. Some wires being snapped by the weight of the snow.

Air mails both east and west were delayed. Due to storms in the east, the westbound mail did not leave New York, while the eastbound mail, after leaving the Bryan, O., field, enroute to Cleveland, was forced to put back because of the storm.

Two persons were in hospitals suffering from accidents incident to the storm.

One Killed In New York.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—With snow still falling early today the city faced another million dollar snow-shoveling bill. Hardly was the work of clearing the streets well under way before a blizzard which lasted all last night virtually undid the work of thousands of men.

Four inches had been added today to the fall of 10 inches which bound the city last week. Traffic was again demoralized and shipping was tied up to await possible visibility.

One man was killed when struck by a snow train. He had been blinded by the storm. He was John Devlin, 33, an elevated track walker.

A change of wind late today was expected to dissipate the blizzard in New York and bring relief to New England which has been suffering from low temperatures. The Connecticut valley reported 20 below zero at White River Junction. The official reading at Northfield, Vermont, was 12 below.

The storm gained in intensity as the day advanced. Thousands were late for work.

The storm at 9 this morning gave every indication of equaling the recent blizzard, which was the worst storm of the winter.

Child Is Auto Victim.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The national capital was buried today under the heaviest snowfall of the year.

A blanket of above 12 inches prevailed on the level, impeding traffic and making thousands living in near-by Maryland and Virginia late to work.

The snow storm caused the death of one child, the probable fatal injury of three others, and a dozen traffic accidents in which motorists were less seriously injured. Rosemary Corby, one year old, was killed in a motor collision in front of the treasury building.

Pennsylvania Snowbound.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 10.—Eastern Pennsylvania was today again covered with from two to eight inches of snow. The snow will continue all day, the weather bureau predicted.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 10.—This city was covered with a five-inch blanket of snow today, automobile and street car traffic was delayed.

Workers were sent out to clear paths through the deep drifts.

BURGETTSTOWN BOARD DIVIDED

Thirteen Directors of Fair Association Re-sign Places.

Thirteen members of the board of directors of the Union Agricultural association of Burgettstown, the oldest organization in southwestern Pennsylvania, have resigned as a climax to a bitter fight in its ranks, which is the outgrowth of feeling produced by the continuance in power of J. M. Pyle, following his arrest for alleged liquor law violation.

Pyle's arrest occurred last fall, just a few weeks prior to the staging of the annual fair at Burgettstown. Pressure was brought to bear on Pyle to resign, but he remained as head of the association.

Election of directors took place in December. The association is a mutual organization with no stockholders and paying no dividends. Persons purchasing membership tickets during the fair are eligible to vote, providing the tickets are registered with the secretary.

At the election about 100 votes were cast, although only 27 had been registered with the secretary.

Twenty-eight directors were chosen and the directors at their reorganization meeting elected Holler C. Vance of Cross Creek township, president. Objecting to alleged irregularities in the election, Vance presented his resignation the next day. J. P. Baily, of Bulger, as first vice president, automatically became head of the association, but he, too, refused to accept the office. The organization remained without a duly elected head until Saturday, when J. H. Muchland of Hanlin station was chosen president and N. H. Hindman of Colliers, vice president. J. L. McGough of Burgettstown was re-elected secretary and Ralph Bell of Burgettstown, treasurer.

Facts regarding the resignation of 12 members of the board of directors came with the announcement that the following now constituted the board: D. L. Lewis, J. M. Pyle, John A. Phyllis and Henry Colteryan, Burgettstown; Auden Miller and J. E. Vance, Avelia; A. S. Cunningham and J. A. Cowden, Hickory; Lloyd Linn, R. D. Washington; J. H. Templeton, Canonsburg; Harry Kelso, R. D. McDonald; Dwight Cooley, Clinton, and George Marshall, Pughstown, W. Va. Directors elected in December, whose names have been withdrawn, due to the friction, are: H. C. Vance and Lee R. Scott, Burgettstown; John Johnston and Charles Patterson of Cross Creek township; Frank Savage and Earl Hood, Hanover township; James Neil and J. P. Baily, Robinson township; J. E. White, Cecil township; John Elliott, Homewell township; Mel Moorehead, McDonald, and Frank Rabb, Midway.

CHURCH OFFICERS ELECTED HERE

At a meeting of the vestry of St. Matthew's Episcopal church held Monday evening the following officers were elected: Senior warden, Bernard Poole; treasurer, Frank Hale; secretary, John Bain.

Reports of officers which were read during the session showed the church to be in excellent condition. Meetings are still in progress at the First Methodist Episcopal church in charge of the pastor, Rev. R. C. Ehrhart. Last night his subject was "Prepare to Meet Thy God." This evening his topic will be: "The Unpardonable Sin." Special musical numbers will be given by the male quartet of the church.

BE KIND TO GOOD LITTLE SNAKES IS ADVICE OF U. S. BIOLOGISTS

WASHINGTON.—Wallo biologists of the department of Agriculture agree that Saint Patrick may have driven all the snakes out of Ireland, they contend that superstitious fear of snakes in this country has led to persistent belief in various baseless myths about the habits of different species.

The "hoop snake" and "stinging snake" traditions are among these. The hoop snake, the biologists say, is credited with the power to form itself into a hoop and roll in pursuit of its victim with race horse speed. If the victim dodges and a tree is struck by the hoop snake, the tree is said to be sure to die.

The stinging snake myth apparently originated more than 200 years ago. It was based on the appearance of the horn snake, which is harmless. The tail of this snake has the shape of a horn or spike, but it is quite incapable of piercing or stinging anything.

The myth of snakes sucking cows is entirely untenable, the biologists contend.

According to biologists, the spreading viper or puffing adder, known also by other names, is one of the greatest bluffers among snakes. One of its peculiar habits is that of feigning death by rolling over on its back. It is entirely harmless, as is also the "coach-whip" snake, which is supposed to be able to whip a man to death.

Contrary to popular belief, most common snakes are neither obnoxious nor poisonous, the biologists assert. The prevalent dread of snakes is due largely to the fear of such venomous species as the cotton-mouth moccasin.

Tells Why He Can Now Eat Hearty

"A letter which I read in the paper about Carter's Little Liver Pills fitted my own case so closely that I could not help trying them and am very happy I did." So writes Mr. Frank J. Trumbull of Jersey City, N. J., whose letter goes on to say: "I had heard about Carter's Little Liver Pills for years but never knew they helped overcome poor appetite and sour stomach until I read about another man in the same plight who took Carter's with good results. I tried them and can honestly say that they freed me of nasty gas on stomach, so that I can now eat without getting bilious, and they improved my appetite fully 100%. You can be rest assured that from now on I will boost Carter's Little Liver Pills whenever I can." Recommended and for sale by all drug stores.

It's Spring In the Silk Department

"If winter comes, can Spring be far behind?"

Again, Spring is just around the corner—and a glimpse at our silk department will prove that it is not far off.

Gay and colorful as flowers, radiant as sunshine and appealing and persuasive as the fragrance-laden breezes awaiting Nature's bidding, are the silks likewise awaiting their joyful and happy introduction to a world of appreciative customers.

When the discriminating woman thinks of silk, she thinks of Mallinson's. Women versed in smart costuming invariably turn to silk, confident of its service - giving quality and incomparable beauty.

Silks—first in fashion favor and first in the minds of women comparable beauty.

Never has the silky way glimmered with more stars—brilliant, picturesque glorifications of fashion in her happiest moods. There's color, a riot of coloring never obtained before. A few of the new silks already arrived are listed below:

Pussy Willow Silk—soft as the bud that gives it its name; colorful as nature in her gayest moods and service-giving as time and experience only can prove. Pussy Willow is first in silks, first in Fashion's court and first in the hearts of discerning women.

Mallinson's Printed Pussy Willow in modernistic, floral, geometric designs, plaids and conventional patterns. Black, navy, coral, cream, green, tan blue, orchid and Bois de Rose. 39 inches wide. $4.50 the yard.

Keep Pimples away

WHY do you let those unsightly pimples, blackheads and blotches disfigure your skin and ruin your appearance? You can keep them away if you keep your system full of rich, red blood. And not only that, but the very texture of your skin will be soft and velvet like—and the coloring radiant as a rose.

It's all in the blood. And S. S. S. will help Nature keep your blood rich and red and pure.

Yes, you can keep pimples away, simply by taking S. S. S. That's a fact. The kind of red-blood-cells that S. S. S. helps Nature build makes your skin beautiful—clears it up just like it puts firm flesh on you—brings strength to weak, flabby muscles—gives you an appetite like you used to have and generates the energy and vitality of youth throughout your entire system. Just try it and see for yourself! All druggists sell S. S. S. Get the larger bottle. It's more economical.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1926.

Two Moves In Right Direction

Mayor Ralph C. Benedum deserves a word of praise for two moves he made yesterday. They are:

1—Declaration of war against peddlers, beggars and street corner loafers.

2—Entering into a contract with the Stark county commissioners for the commitment of East Liverpool prisoners to the Canton workhouse.

East Liverpool has been overrun during the last few months with mendicants, not to mention the hordes of peddlers who seem to think this is a good territory. Returns from begging, generally done by men who are better able to work than the persons whom they approach for financial aid, reach surprising totals, police investigations show.

Transient peddlers deserve no quarter. They contribute nothing to the upkeep of the city other than the insignificant sum they pay for a license—and many of them do not even seek a permit. And they are competitors of the merchant who is here 365 days a year and pays taxes, either directly or indirectly, for the support of the municipality.

With a workhouse agreement in effect, Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley has a weapon that should drive home to habitual offenders that it does not pay to break the law.

No Trees, No Crops

"If grain were pouring through cracks in a barn, or money were being lost through holes in a bank, the owners of such treasure would hasten to stop the breach," writes a correspondent in the Atlanta, Ga., Journal. "But millions of dollars' worth of Georgia soil, the stronghold of her harvest hopes, are being swept away from treeless and unturfed lands. Every rain digs the red gullies deeper and adds to the lost wealth which the rivers drag down to the sea.

"It is not simply so much earth that drifts away; it is the capital of the coming years, the source and sinew of future enterprise, the very bread for which some day our children will ask to find only stones. What can check and prevent this waste? Only the reforestation of naked and barren slopes, the terracing of farm hillsides, and plowing deep enough to let the water seep far in."

This is a very striking presentation of the need of trees and the dire consequences of denuding an agricultural region of all its forests. Too many people think of trees as being beautiful while they stand, but useful only when turned into lumber. That false notion is to blame for much of the forest waste that has already taken place in this country and for much of the public and private indifference that still retards the development of a widespread, intelligent reforestation policy.

Georgia has not been alone in this error. Hardly a section of the country is not in great need of reform along this line.

The Top Job

The head of a big natural gas company recalls his first job. He was a barefooted farmer boy and the job was driving a herd of cattle six miles on a hot afternoon. His pay consisted of a piece of pie, a glass of milk and two cents. He says he has never forgotten how much that money meant to him.

Since that time he has held numerous other positions, among them being almost every possible job connected with a gas company, from scout and pipe fitter to president. And this is how he describes his present position at the top:

"It's not a dizzy height. The only difference is that there is a little more work to do, a great deal more responsibility, and an endless demand for tact. One must be more than ever considerate of the other fellow's feelings."

"A little more work to do and a great deal more responsibility" are probably very close to the truth about any big job. They make the job big. But they are far from the common conception of the attributes of the place at the top. A good many people who are stuck considerably farther down the ladder are inclined to imagine that achievement of the top means a life of ease and the cessation of all further effort.

Perilous Mild Weather

A mail carrier was recently lost for two weeks in the Peace River region of the Canadian northwest. Almost everybody south of the Canadian boundary line would probably jump to the conclusion that the postman was undoubtedly snow-bound, caught in a terrific blizzard or something of the sort. Such was not the case.

When he finally came into the town of Peace River it was learned that he had been delayed by "mild weather." At a certain place the winter route ordinarily crosses a frozen stream, using the ice for bridge. This time instead of ice there was a swiftly flowing stream. The carrier was forced to make a long detour and cut a trail for 100 miles through the bush to make a safe crossing.

Here is subject for a new type of movie scenario, perhaps showing the royal mounted police battling with the adverse forces of mild weather in the relentless pursuit of their man.

Hitherto an artist announcing a "farewell tour" has rarely qualified as the subject of Diogenes' search. Maybe Mischa Elman, violinist, is different. He played in Toronto, Canada, the other evening and called it his "farewell-for-three-years" appearance.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 10.—A tourist may see anything here from a sand flea to an elephant. Looking out across the lawn from under a palm tree where I write (A Hemade, Alvin, and wire my regards to the polar in the Bronx zoo) I see a lumbering elephant drawing a load of hay.

He trumpets glee or woe, as the case may be, at intervals. The sudden growth of Miami offers amusing sidelights. Asking a traffic cop the location of a certain street, he replied: "I don't know it. I've only been here six months."

People who have been here three years intimate they helped flaglay the first rail. Five years makes an old settler. Boosting is common. The prosperous in any community are invariably boosters whether in Miami, Los Angeles or Kamchatka. It becomes a natural and admirable trait.

A town may often be judged best by birds of passage. If the picking is good they remain. If bad they knock and fly away. They are usually truthful, for they have nothing to lose. Right now Miami has many of these migratory birds, so the picking must be good.

Miami's chief lure, of course, is climate and that, mesdames et messieurs, is enough to stabilize any community. The real estate boom may be a bubble or may not. I am not hibernating here to study economics or digest the usual Chamber of Commerce blarney. I am watching the people.

And the great majority are here to stay. Or I am wrong again as usual. The sourest curmudgeon could scarcely resist the beauty of a Florida night when a dying sun spits red fire and chaste moon dapples the porticoes.

It is only fair to say that after three days here and rather generous publicity over my arrival, no one has made a direct approach to sell real estate, but that may be because realtors know the financial standing, if any, of the average reporter.

The hotels are smart and sumptuous. The verandahs offer a vista of tropical vegetation. Nearly all the swankiest inns are on the American plan. This cramps the style of those who dine on a toothpick and a glass of water and strut in the lobby. At the average first-class hotel the rate is $25 a day which, everything considered, is not much higher than New York. As I am living at a rental house on Miami Beach, I do not know the hotels at first hand, but service is reported good.

Pointing up north, he had etiquette except to select French pastry. Down here it is extended to pointing at real estate plots. Everybody points.

The real estate salesmen are the brick types who sell bonds in New York. Their method is oblique. They do not want to sell. They merely want you to see and they will take you in their high powered motor cars for the view. Often I am told they never suggest a sale. They merely let the impression sink in. If it bears fruit, well and good. If not, some 20 trains a day roar in with new prospects.

Not that it interests me, but one cannot help noticing Miami Beach has not bathing suit regulations. The ladies may expose their legs, limbs, or whatever they call them this season, without censorship. A walk along some sections of the beach gives the flavor of a musical revue, especially around tea time. The sun down here somehow or other does not tan the ladies. And the men only slightly.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Working for the Government.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 10.—Something more than a ripple of surprise—almost a wave of indignation—went over the country at the recent announcement as to the number of people on the public payrolls of the nation. It was stated that for every ten persons in business or private employment there is one who draws his sustenance from the public by holding a job under the federal, state or local governments.

The average pay of these public servants was estimated at $1,500 per annum, which would make an average burden of $150 per capita which those who get their incomes in other ways must pay for the privilege of being governed. And the salaries of office holders of one kind and another represent only part of the total cost of government.

That public office is still regarded as a private snap is evidenced by the grand rush that is constantly on for appointive positions, as well as by the keen rivalry whenever an elective office is to be filled.

Only officers of campaign committees and presidents, senators, representatives, governors, mayors and other officials having patronage to dispense, have a real conception of the widespread desire there is among Americans to become job-hunters.

They are besieged by hungry hordes until life becomes a burden to them, and that indefinite but potent force known as "influence" is brought to bear on them in a thousand and one ways.

Unfortunately they do not keep records of the number and variety of applications for appointments they receive. Hence there are no authentic statistics available that would show what the proportion of public employees of one kind and another would be if all the would-be could get what they wanted. That it would be far above one in ten is, however, obvious.

Most of the place-seekers hope to better themselves financially by getting attached to a public payroll, but members of congress say that a surprisingly large percentage of them are better off than they would be if they secured the jobs for which they apply. In many instances men are willing to abandon businesses and private positions with better prospects and better pay than are held out by the government service, and this for no ascertainable good reason other than the imaginary prestige that attaches to being rewarded for political activity.

Civil Service Records.

It is possible to get something of an idea as to the extent of the desire for government employment from the records of the United States Civil Service Commission. During the last fiscal year the number of persons examined by the commission was 216,135. The total number of appointments during the year to positions in the classified service of the federal government was 48,804.

Manifestly every position for which there was a vacancy was filled, so it is shown that there were more than four times as many applicants as there were jobs available. If that ratio holds with respect to places outside the federal classified service and those under the state and local governments, then it would seem that fully one-half the adult population of the country is ready and anxious to serve the other half if the taxpayers will foot the bills.

Of the fortunate who were inducted into positions under Uncle Sam, 11,464, or 23.3 per cent, were beneficiaries of the veteran preference acts. Since these laws were passed in 1919 as a means of rewarding World war veterans—giving them a decided advantage over other applicants—approximately 370,000 of these claims for preference in appointment to positions in the federal classified service have been allowed, and of the veterans who applied for examination more than $1,000 have received appointment.

The number of different occupations or kinds of positions for which examinations were held by the commission during the year was 979, in addition to those held for mechanical trades and similar jobs. This would indicate that Uncle Sam has a job for some one in almost every line of activity, provided he can pass a fairly rigorous test and demonstrate his qualifications.

During the year the commission distributed almost five million information circulars, application forms, and cards. The number of visitors to the information office in Washington was 109,125 as against 84,401 for the preceding year, and the number of letters and other communications received in the application division, aside from application forms, was 351,355 as compared with 299,779 for 1924. This may be taken as a revelation of Uncle Sam's growth in popularity as a prospective employer.

Urges Merit System Extension.

The commission says that the merit system has demonstrated its necessity and usefulness during four decades of practical application in nation, state, and city, not merely as a means of abolishing party patronage, but as operating in the public interest in securing efficiency and economy in government.

"We urge its extension," says the commission, "to apply to the selection, tenure, pay and promotion of all non-political employees. An adequate employment system is more vital to government than it is to industry."

The recommendation is made that the next step in the removal of postmasterships from patronage should be the passage of one of the many bills now before congress which would place all postmasters within the classified service, abolish the four year term, and do away with the confirmation by the senate of postmastership appointments. It is argued that only in this way can these offices be taken out of politics and become in fact as they are in legal purpose mere business agencies of the government.

The further point is made that these positions should be more generally open to promotion to the end that the federal service may offer a career to aspiring youth comparable to outside employment.

Prohibition enforcement jobs will be brought into the classified service if congress has due regard for the judgment of the Civil Service Commission. The commission does not, however, think that present holders of places in the rum-chasing branch of the government should be covered into the classified service by any legislation which congress may enact.

This would suggest that in the opinion of the commission there are now some individuals in the prohibition enforcement service who should not enjoy the life tenure and security that go with positions protected by the civil service law.

The commission also wants the position of deputy collectors of internal revenue restored to the competitive classified service.

"Only an efficient, honest, and experienced force can execute the internal revenue laws in such a way as to prevent evasions and violations, which result in loss of much revenue," it declares, "and only the merit system will assure such a force."

Among the things that don't function are blue laws, scar tissue and nice rules in time of war.—Youngstown Vindicator.

AUCTION BRIDGE RULES ARE REVISED; ALL HONORS GIVEN EQUAL VALUE

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—A revision of the rules of auction bridge toward simplified scoring was announced today, following a conference of experts last Saturday. Milton C. Work, chairman of the committee on rules of the Whist Club of New York and representatives of the American Whist league, the Knickerbocker Whist club and the New York Bridge Whist club, attended the conference.

The scoring of honors was changed to give all honors, regardless of suits, an equal value. No change was made in honors at no trump. The following rule was adopted:

Honors are scored in the honor suit of the side to which they are dealt; their value is not changed by doubling or redoubling. All honors held by each side are scored according to the following table:

|---|
| 6 in one hand, 3 in the other, count 30 points. |
| 1 in one hand, 2 in the other, count 30 points. |
| 1 in one hand, 3 in the other, count 40 points. |
| 2 in one hand, 2 in the other, count 40 points. |

2 in one hand, 3 in the other, count 50 points.
0 in one hand, 4 in the other, count 80 points.
1 in one hand, 4 in the other, count 90 points.
0 in one hand, 5 in the other, count 100 points.
A revision of the revoke rules also was made so as to make the penalty one trick, to be scored by the innocent side, eliminating the former penalty of 50 cents. The revoking side may score only honors held for the hand.

WAR LETTER, SEVEN YEARS LATE, ARRIVES

Pershing's Note From Trenches Reaches Newspaper Man.

LAUDS SCRIBE

Missive is Prized by Bert Ford.

BOSTON, Feb. 10.—A world war letter arrived here today from the trenches in France—seven years late, but welcome and prized.

The letter was written by General John J. Pershing, commander in chief of the A. E. F., from "G. H. Q. M." at Chaumont March 18, 1919, to Bert Ford, accredited war correspondent, representing International News Service and the hundreds of newspapers it serves throughout the world.

General Pershing, in the letter, expressed appreciation of himself, staff, and troops for the "adequate and accurate information" presented to the American public by Ford in his International News Service dispatches.

As a representative of International News Service, Ford had been in the combat eighteen months with the American, French and British forces on the Western front. After the Armistice he went into Germany with the American army of occupation.

Officer delivers letter. Learning that Ford was about to leave Coblenz and the A. E. F., to interview President Woodrow Wilson, on his arrival at Brest, to report developments at the peace conference in Paris and later to sail home with the Yankee division, General Pershing dispatched the personal letter, which missed Ford by a day in Coblenz. Then it suffered the adversity and oblivion of other army mail and baggage. It finally came to Ford today through an army intelligence officer. The letter follows:

"My Dear Mr. Ford: It gives me a great deal of pleasure to express to you for myself, my staff and the troops, our appreciation of the services you have rendered to the army and to the American public, during your stay with us in France.

"Coming to us as you did in March, 1918, you were with the American front line troops continuously, with the exception of three months last summer, when you were with the British. During that time you won golden opinions from officers, correspondents and men, and we are indeed sorry to see you leave.

"I believe you had exceptional opportunities for observing and as a representative of the International News Service, I am glad to feel that you have fulfilled your duty of giving our people adequate and accurate information of the troops.

"With warmest personal regards, believe me, very truly yours, John J. Pershing."

Mary Lewis, New Opera Star, Only Desires to Be Herself

Like Mimi in Her Paris Garret, American Girl Says "I'm Happy in My Little Home."

NEW YORK.—"I'm just like 'Mimi' in her garret," Mary Lewis said when her visitor got to the top floor rear apartment at No. 3 East Forty-seventh street. But Mimi in a Paris house was very different from a successful young American opera star living in a New York walk-up with broad staircases and thick carpets because she wants to. Yet, it is fitting that a star should dwell on high.

Mary Lewis loves to be identified with "Mimi" because that role in La Boheme marked her debut last Wednesday afternoon at the Metropolitan. But she doesn't like to be compared to any other singers.

"Why can't people speak of anyone's voice or looks without saying, 'She resembles this one' or 'She sings like that one'—it makes me furious. I want to be judged on what I do and what I am."

Likes Hard Work. It is a fact, however, that Miss Lewis was so successful she got sick. Hurrying home to her house after the performance, the new star finally gave up to the enormous strain that had preceded her debut for a month, of working—and waiting.

"Rosa Ponselle told me she was ill for a week after her debut. It's the excitement, I suppose. But it's worth it."

"Sitting here in my little home I am so happy. It has meant hard work and will mean constant attention to work above all else. But I like that work and my home."

Loves Her House. "I love my house and other people's houses. I don't like parties unless they're given in some one's home. It makes a different atmosphere. But I can't go to many parties now. I have to be very good and think of my voice and of getting enough rest."

Only a few years ago Mary Lewis—now only 25—was singing popular songs in The Greenwich Village Follies. But back in the singer's mind were remembrances of the glamorous Geraldine Farrar she had heard sing at the Metropolitan and a great desire to go and do likewise. Since then there have been three years of study abroad and Mary Lewis, American prima donna emerged. But to go back.

Was Choir Singer. Just eight years after Mary had left choir singing in Little Rock, Ark., to join a musical comedy, she received a contract with Mr. Gatti-Casazza of the Metropolitan, which stipulates that star parts only are to be offered this beautiful young singer. The gap between choir and opera house was bridged by determination and saving money.

Took Precautions. This precaution made it possible to change from one place to another.

where better opportunities loomed up. In time this same system of preparedness made it possible to come to New York and follow Farrar's footsteps.

After the first audition with "Gatti," Miss Lewis was offered a contract which she refused, insisting upon European study to fit herself for the role.

Mary Lewis could easily win beauty prizes if she cared for such frivolous enterprises. She is tall, slim, with blue eyes, wavy golden hair and dimples.

FOES OF WORLD COURT TO OPEN NEW CAMPAIGN

Nation-wide Drive for U. S. Withdrawal is Planned.

SECRET MEETING

Headquarters Will be Established in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—A nation-wide campaign for American withdrawal from the world court—even before American adherence has become a fact—is to be launched in the near future for the senate battalion of irreconcilables.

With such a campaign in mind, the irreconcilables already have held one secret meeting, it was learned today, and will soon meet again in an effort to perfect a permanent anti-world court bloc in the senate and a national organization, devoted to keeping the United States out of "foreign entanglements."

The first goal of the bloc, aided by the national organization, under the plan discussed by the irreconcilables, would be to withdraw the United States from the world court under the reservation, written into the Swanson resolution of adherence, which provided for an American withdrawal through majority action of the two houses of congress. This reservation, a part of the conditions upon which American adherence to the court was based, can be invoked at any time.

Discuss Diplomatic Feat. The irreconcilables, it was said, discussed the advisability of launching their withdrawal campaign even while the American government is seeking acceptance of its reservation by the fifty odd other nations, now members of the court. This diplomatic feat, it was pointed out, may consume many months, by which time, the irreconcilables hope to have public opinion sufficiently aroused against the court to insure American withdrawal before any question, affecting this nation, can ever be submitted to it for arbitration.

The methods of anti-court warfare discussed by the irreconcilables, it was said, included the establishment of a headquarters in Washington to disseminate information against the court, to arrange speaking tours for the irreconcilable senators, to project the issue into senatorial primaries and to keep the subject constantly alive in the senate.

Session in Borah's Office.

The session was held in the offices of Senator Borah, R. of Idaho, and the senators attending were said to include Brookhart, R. of Iowa; Fernald, R. of Maine; Frazier, R. of North Dakota; Harrell, R. of Oklahoma; Johnson, R. of California; La Follette, R. of Wisconsin; Moses, R. of New Hampshire; Nye, R. of North Dakota; Pine, R. of Oklahoma; Robinson, R. of Indiana; Schall, R. of Minnesota; Williams, R. of Missouri; Blease, D. of South Carolina; Reed, D. of Missouri; and Dill, D. of Washington. Senator Watson, R. of Indiana, was the only irreconcilable not present.

Senator Reed, D. of Missouri, although declining to discuss the conference, did announce that a national organization would be formed.

"An organization will be founded," said Reed, "the re-establish the American doctrine on nationalism instead of internationalism. That movement has been started outside the senate."

hurt. They were expected to be discharged from the hospital later in the day.

Blast Part of Rock.

Cowart, who was removed to his home in Harker avenue, was attended by Dr. Albert J. Michaels. His left ear was lacerated and his hip injured. He is thought to be the most seriously injured of the five.

The wreck crew of the street car company in charge of Hugh Thorm, division superintendent, was called out as soon as the accident was reported at the car barn. Dynamite was used to blast the huge rock. Two hours after work was started one track was opened and cars began their regular runs. A single track arrangement will be used for the remainder of the day.

Hundreds of pottery workers, employed in East End and water plants, were forced to walk to their place of employment as a result of the accident.

The first cars over the lines were unable to operate on schedule because of the six-inch snowfall which covered the tracks. The snow in hilltop districts drifted to a depth of two or three feet.

'Worth of Soul,' Is Sermon Topic of Rev. B. R. Johnson

Reference is Made to Clarence Darrow and Chicago Murder Trial in Discourse at Church of Christ.

Much interest is developing in the revival services being conducted by the First Church of Christ. The pastor, Rev. B. R. Johnson, assisted by Homer Kellems and wife is in charge. Already six have united with the church.

Rev. Johnson spoke last night upon the subject, "The Worth of a Soul." He said in part:

"The worth of a thing is determined by its cost, by the price paid for it. What is that by worth? Ask his mother who gave him being. Put that on this platform and stack beside him all the gold of all the worlds and it would look like so much tinsel to the real mother heart compared to the worth of her child. God has put an estimable value of the soul of man. We have been bought with a price, the price of the blood of the son of God. If you want to know how God values human life look at Calvary."

"Just recently Clarence Darrow, the noted infidel and defender of criminals, has said it is man's egotism that makes him believe in immortality. He asks: 'What proof do you have that man is immortal?' Go to the drug store and you can purchase for five dollars all the elements that compose the body of a human being. Why should you think that man will live on when life has left the body?" It is true that some folks put a five dollar estimate upon themselves. It was six times five or 30 pieces of silver, that Judas estimated the worth of the Man city from the Thompson avenue basins, the hillside from the high service reservoir and the hilltop from the stand pipe.

"The chloride content of the local water is quite low and need not be considered in its physical actions. The waters of Beaver and Monaca contain considerable chlorides. Monaca no doubt has tastes at times do to this constituent. Surface waters carry considerable organic matter such as decayed vegetable matter and sewage and the Ohio river is heavily burdened with this, which complicates and adds to our treatment troubles. It must be, and is all removed by the filtration plant."

"All potable waters contains dissolved oxygen under natural conditions, to the extent that this oxygen is absent, the water is said to be stagnant, the anarobic organisms then begin to multiply with the formation of very disagreeable tastes and odors."

"The corrosive properties of the water is due to the dissolved gases carbon dioxide and oxygen. This rusty water would have a very disagreeable taste. Lime is added at the plant to reduce this action to a minimum."

Experiments carried on at the plant has shown that the treated water is only 80 per cent as corrosive as the river water.

The East Liverpool filtration plant is of the mechanical or rapid sand type. The raw water from the low lift pumps discharges through four vertical pipes into a settling basin where the larger particles of mud settle out, then to the mixing chambers, at the entrance to which the solution of alum sulphate and lime are added.

"The water then enters two coagulation basins where the turbidity and organic matter is coagulated and settled out. The water then enters the influent gutter through which it flows to six 1,000,000 gallon filter units."

"After the filters have been in service 24 hours they become clogged with the material removed from the water. It then becomes necessary to wash them. This is done by reversing the flow of the water through them by admitting water from the elevated storage tank into the filter up through the sand and gravel flushing all the mud into the sewer."

"The water from the filters is received into a clear well, at the outlet of which the chlorine is added which kills all the bacteria that may have passed the other purification processes."

"In 1915 a survey was made of the Ohio river and it was estimated that about 500 tons a day of acid wastes were being discharged into the Ohio river above us and that coal mine drainage was responsible for 85 per cent of this and the pickling wastes from the steel mills for only 15 per cent. No doubt at this period, 10 years later, the amounts are many times larger."

"The Public Health Service, with whom your chemist is cooperating in studies of the pollution of the Ohio river, has found that the East Liverpool plant is subjected to the widest variations or ranges of pollution of any plant on the river."

"The tastes complained of at times in our water is due to the phenol wastes discharged into the river from the byproduct coke ovens. Numerous experiments have been carried on at the plant in an attempt to remove by chemical means these phenol compounds, but with no complete practical success. These phenol compounds are sometimes present in larger amounts than the amount of chlorine applied to the water. The chlorine very rarely has anything to do with the taste, as the discontinuance of the chlorine treatment does not alleviate the taste, in fact the increasing of the chlorine does sometimes assist in reducing the tastes."

"In 1915 in 57 American cities over 100,000 population the typhoid death rate was 28 per 100,000 population; in 1920 this has been reduced to 4 per 100,000. In 1908 there were less than 100 purification plants. In 1920 there were more than 3,200 purified and disinfected water supplies. In 1915-18 the average typhoid death rate of our city was 76 per 100,000 population; in 1923-24 this was reduced to 4 per 100, of Galilee. Others sell soul and body for a price. Watch those who walk our streets whose bodies are for sale. Look at the dissipated faces, the worn, languid look and the unsteady gait. There is no purpose to such a life and it drifts with the moving tides of the herd."

"I can imagine a youth walking along the street to school. I also imagine two young men out riding in a stolen auto. As they approach the youth the car stops and the young men ask the lad to ride to school. He is gagged, taken to a lonely spot in the country, beaten over the head with a chisel and as the blood oozes out of his mouth his pleading eyes beg for life. But there is no mercy shown. They hit again and again and again until the lifeless body lies limp in their arms. Then these young men jam the remains of the youth into a culvert and one returns home to his idleness while another translates a Spanish book whose special theme is sex."

"I can imagine that when these two young are approached and brought to court for their dastardly deed, that a man like Clarence Darrow would be called to their defense. Yes, some men sell their talent, their soul for a price, but God cannot and real men do not so estimate the life of the human race."

"Man is more than the beast. Of all created things man only imitates the creator. The beast will prowl through woodland and forest, over flowers and beds of moss and have no thought of beauty, but man will stop to look and let his soul drink from the sources of beauty and grandeur that surround him. He will return at night to paint the picture of the sunset, and transfer to canvas the beauty of blooming flower and singing bird. All this because man sees behind nature and speaking through nature a presence to which the soul turns with an impulse to worship."

FOUR CHILDREN BURN TO DEATH

Mother Rescues Two as Fire Destroys Home.

COATESVILLE, Pa., Feb. 10.—Four children of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Etters, living near here, were burned to death early today when fire of unknown origin destroyed the Etters home.

The dead: Frances, 8. Benjamin, 5. George, 3. Theodore, 2.

Mrs. Etters said she was awakened by the fire and quickly dropped two of her children to safety from a window. Flames blocked her way when she started to another room for the other four, she said. The woman then jumped to safety.

Etters was in Coatesville at the time of the fire. He is employed by the Bethlehem Steel company. Firemen from Modena were called but they said on account of snow drifts they were unable to reach the burning building.

000 population; in 1925 there were no typhoid deaths.

"Water does not get all the credit for this, but it does point out that communities that are progressive enough to install a modern water system also give some consideration to other health measures. It must be borne in mind that the children do not have the immunity or resistance to water borne diseases as do adults."

"The per capita consumption of water in East Liverpool is about 160 gallons per day. A fair, generous and economical quantity would be about 100 gallons per day. This is in accordance with the best American standards."

"In closing I wish to say East Liverpool has one of the finest water works in the country."

Woman, Acquitted Of Murder of Girl, Is Declared Sane

SANDUSKY, O., Feb. 10.—Mrs. Mary Keller, acquitted of the murder of her daughter, Fay Elizabeth, 8, "because of insanity," but held to be sane by a lunacy commission that examined her yesterday, was being carefully watched in the Erie county jail today, having declared last night "they'll never take me away from here except to put me under six feet of earth."

Sheriff Harry L. Cole said today that the woman will be under the eye of some person constantly so long as she is in his custody.

Probate Judge John E. Tanney was expected to pass upon the report of the commission late today. It is for him to decide whether Mrs. Keller shall be committed to an institution or set free.

when they carried his head around on the end of a pike. It is well to remember these things, even in happy, prosperous days.

Rev. James Empringham, of the Protestant Episcopal church temperance society, favors modification of the Volstead act, to legalize light wine and beer.

Bishop Manning, who says Empringham has no right to speak for the church, calls drinking "not a sin," but says prohibition laws should be obeyed. This does not annoy dry laymen, his parishioners, now building for him the great cathedral of St. John the Divine. They can drink whatever they want, from cocktails to port, with sherry, hock, champagne and claret in between.

Cardinal Hayes, just returned from Rome, tells New York reporters, referring to prohibition, that it is "improper to ask our children to consider vice and outlawed that which we must use daily in our worship."

Many find it hard to understand why use of alcoholic wine should be permitted in churches. Protestant, Catholic, Jewish and forbidden elsewhere.

That is for discussion by those with religious authority. Ordinary men wonder that prohibition has succeeded in driving out comparatively mild alcoholic drinks that many European nations have used for centuries, without drunkenness, while bootleggers have enthroned whisky as the national drink.

Mr. Buckner, United States attorney, tell New York business men it would cost $15,000,000 a year to enforce prohibition in New York state alone. He might add that such an expenditure would not actually enforce prohibition. You could not stop the bootleg traffic, with its profits of hundreds of millions annually, if you spent a thousand million yearly.

Some recommend legalizing light wine and beer, while keeping out the saloon. Others, equally sincere, believe that legalized wine and beer would be used as a mask form for illegal whisky.

Dwight Morrow, President Coolidge's air board chief, understanding commerce, wisely emphasizes the importance of the commercial airplane, and in and out of the postoffice. That development is progressing at a rate that makes the inactivity and incompetency of the army and navy aircraft less and less important.

Mr. New, the postmaster general, works constantly at air mail extension. On April 1, the trans-continental air mail will divide at Salt Lake City, and thence, separate flying machines, will carry mail to northern and southern California, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Mr. Mayo, Ford's chief engineer, says Henry Ford is planning many new lines.

He has planes running now from Detroit to Cleveland and Chicago. He plans another line to Buffalo, another to Boston, connecting lines to New York, taking in Springfield, Mass., Albany and New Haven.

What is most important, Ford expects to add to his express carrying a flying passenger department.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Industrial stocks in most of the major groups resumed their forward price movement promptly today and prices were higher in the forenoon period. The high priced industrials and poor stocks raced up from 2 to 8 points in active trading in the first hour, while the advance of the oils, coppers, motors, motor accessories, utilities and a few of the speculative rails continued at more leisurely pace.

The bulls pressed their advantage in Allied Chemical, American and General Electric, all of which reached record high price levels, General Electric advancing 9 1/2 points to 354. Stocks of the food companies and the local traction companies dropped back into the shadow as the oils and coppers were pushed into the limelight by the important developments in their respective industries.

Oil conservation is being discussed with the president today by leaders of the industry, and copper producers are about to take steps to stiffen the selling market price of the red metal. The steel corporation's subsidiaries were reported operating at 88 per cent of capacity and the report of forward tonnage at noon today was awaited with unusual interest, in view of the heavy railroad and automobile buying of steel products.

OLD PURITAN BLUE LAW HIT IN MAN'S TRIAL

Anthony Bimba Faces Brockton, Mass., Court for Blasphemy.

SPEECH CITED

Charge New Yorker Asserted Disbelief in Personal God.

BROCKTON, Mass., Feb. 10.—A picturesque figure, with masses of raven black hair curled down over his forehead almost to the top of the spectacles behind which keen eyes glitter, goes on trial in district court today charged with violating the ancient Puritan blue law prohibiting blasphemy.

The man Anthony Bimba, alleged communist, of Brooklyn, N. Y., during a speech here on January 29 is alleged to have asserted his disbelief in a personal God. In later speeches, it is alleged, Bimba advocated the overthrow of the government of the United States and his native Lithuania. The blue law of 1697, under which Bimba was held, is declared by the defendant to be unconstitutional. A fine of $300 or imprisonment up to a year is the penalty. The law supercedes one of 1645 which made death the sole penalty for blasphemy.

City Prosecutor L. Manuel Rubin said that every effort would be made to convict Bimba.

The move to enforce the blue law raised the question as to whether Luther Burbank or Clarence Darrow would be prosecuted if they came to Massachusetts and expressed disbelief. It was reported that Darrow had been asked to defend Bimba.

and hands were frozen and he could not talk. He pointed to the beach and sank unconscious on the floor.

Pitiful Scene on Beach.

Natives were quickly notified and plowed their way through the deep snow to the beach. Here a pitiful sight met their eyes.

On the shore lay half a dozen fishermen, hardy men and used to all kinds of weather. Their struggle against sea and storm had been too much and, on reaching shore, they had collapsed.

The natives carried the stricken seamen to their homes, giving them food and shelter.

Hurried calls were sent to the city, seven miles away, for doctors.

OWNERS OF DOGS HIT BY NEW LAW

Dozens of applications for dog licenses are being rejected daily by Deputy Tax Collector Randall Hamilton for the reason that owners of dogs who are forwarding money for such licenses have failed to inclose the proper amount with their applications. It now costs $2 for a license for a male dog and $4 for a license for a female dog. The present cost of a dog license is $1 higher than that which prevailed up to and including Jan. 20. Since then a penalty of $1 has to be collected under the new law. At the close of business Tuesday evening, 4,445 dog licenses had been issued, and on more than 500 of these licenses which have been issued since Jan. 20 the penalty of $1 has been collected. When an applicant for a dog license forwards $1 for a male and $3 for a female dog, a form letter is returned to the applicant, advising that the license will be forwarded as soon as the penalty of $1 has been remitted.

Q. What is the most comfortable position for the feet when standing for a long time? J. G. A. In tireless long standing, too, in with the weight-bearing foot.

Q. When a lightning stroke hits a rod building, is there a report or is the shock carried off silently? C. S. M. A. When a lightning stroke occurs on a rod building, thunder will follow. However, at least 98 per cent of the value of a system of lightning rods is in the function of allowing the electrical energy to fuse off from the points of the lightning rods, thus preventing the high electrical stress between cloud and earth, and when this is prevented the stroke is prevented. Lightning rods allow the current to pass or fuse off from the points, leaving the building in a normal electrical condition, yet there is a possibility of a lightning stroke which if it should occur would be much lighter than without any means of protection, and the rods should carry this stroke to the ground.

Q. Are many Indians employed by the bureau of Indian affairs? C. M. A. A total of 1,708 Indians are employed with annual salaries amounting to almost $2,000,000.

Q. What per cent of the citrus fruit and raisins of California is controlled by co-operative societies? O. L. A. The bureau of agricultural economics says that 85 per cent of the California raisin crop is controlled by co-operative societies; 80 per cent of the citrus fruit production is controlled.

Q. How far is the Thames navigable? S. A. T. A. The Thames rises in the south-eastern slopes of the Cotswolds hills in Gloucestershire. It is navigable for barges to Lechlade upward of 200 miles above its mouth. Its total length is 215 miles.

Q. Is the word "alright" correctly used in any sense? A. S. A. In the English language, there is no such word as "alright." The expression consists of two words, all right.

Q. Name some men of prominence who have been preachers' sons? A. N. A. There are Cecil Rhodes and Harrison, among financiers, Cleveland, Arthur and Wilson among presidents, Emerson, Coleridge, Addison and Tennyson among writers, Hallam, Hobbes, Froude, Sloane and Parkman among historians, Reynolds, Jenner, Linnaeus and Sir Christopher Wren.

Q. From which direction are the prevailing winds in tropical countries? C. L. K. A. The winds of tropical regions are prevailing from the east; those of middle latitudes, from the west. This is because the earth turns on its axis from west to east while the atmosphere shows but continuously circulates from equatorial to polar regions and back.

Q. In passing people already seated in a theater, should a man face the occupants of the seats or the stage? A. G. C. A. He should face the stage. He is less likely to knock the knees of those sitting or to disarrange their clothes.

Q. Who advanced the theory that vaccination would prevent smallpox? M. R. L. A. The discovery of the prophylactic power of vaccination was made by Edward Jenner, an English physician. He discussed it with Edward Gardner in 1780, but continued to experiment for many years. He performed his first public inoculation with vaccine on May 14, 1796.

Q. What is the word for fear of cats? H. M. A. The term for this feeling is acrophobia.

Q. When were the naval and military academies established? A. R. D. A. The naval school was founded at Annapolis in 1845. In 1849 the name was changed to United States Naval academy. The United States Military academy was established at West Point in 1794.

What It Does

tells what it is!

PERFORMANCE is the one thing that tells the inside story of an automobile—any automobile. What a car can do tells what the car is, underneath the gleam of paint and fine feathers.

Aside from the appealing beauty of the 1926 Chandler, and the tempting lowness of price, performance is the thing that is causing the great momentum in Chandler sales.

Chandler has shown the world what it is by winning the annual Automobile Race up the slopes of Pike's Peak; by breaking climbing records on Mt. Washington, Mt. Diablo and the Continental Divide; by averaging 86.9 miles an hour for 1000 on the track at Culver City.

On January 5th, at Muroc Lake, California, a Chandler covered a mile in 31.1 seconds—in other words, at the rate of 115.3 miles per hour!

Chandler's famous Pike's Peak Motor certainly has the power. Chandler new body designs certainly reflect richness and style. Chandler's perfected chassis certainly has a great advantage with its "One Shot" push-a-plunger system of centralized lubrication.

See the new Chandler—then see what it can do in traffic, on the open road, on hills that tilt steeply toward the sky!

METHUSELAH'S WIFE

THE STORY OF A GIRL WHO MARRIED FOR MONEY

SEVENTY-ONE.

Mrs. Brent Daly stepped out of her dressing room and walked resolutely into Harwood House. Noble had been shut up there for three days, denying himself to all callers, and refusing to accede to urgent appeals of his daughters and sister to answer the telephone. She was determined to see him and express her thoughts.

"I am sorry, Mrs. Daly, but he won't allow me to admit anyone," Louis told her, very respectfully.

The visitor glowered at him, and moved determinedly toward the portal. "Louis, are you going to throw me out?"

"Well, er—no, Mrs. Daly, but—"

"Louis, I am going to enter this house, and I am going to see my brother." With that she pushed him aside with her hands, and stalked into the hall and up the stairs.

"The door is locked, madam," the butler called up from below.

Mrs. Daly paused. "Louis, you have no doubt, a master key, or a duplicate of all the keys in the house," Louis answered before giving his answer, and she pressed him. "Haven't you?"

"Yes, Mrs. Daly, but—"

"Well, unlock Noble Harwood's door."

"Yes, madam."

The noise of the key in the lock aroused a voice from within. "Who's there? Who's there, I say? I told you not to come in here, Louis, unless I ordered you to."

Mrs. Daly beeliegedly elbowed the butler aside, and herself opened the door.

Her eyes were startled by the figure she saw standing before her in the room. Unshaven, his hair a mess, Noble was wearing a wrinkled dressing gown splashed with some of the contents of the many cups he evidently had been consuming. There were empty bottles upon a table, and the butts of many cigars.

"Well, Noble," she said, meeting his glance so relentlessly that his eyes fell.

"I don't care to see you, Nell," he replied, turning, "and I wish you would please go."

"I won't go," Noble Harwood, and you are going to listen to me. Sit down—"

"She spoke as one born to command—a fact to which her husband would have testified.

"Well, Nell," he said, offering her a chair and taking one himself, calmly. "I suppose you have a post-mortem to make and a sermon to deliver."

"Noble, having shown us that you are a fool, you are now proceeding to demonstrate conclusively that you are an idiot. Don't you realize what a picture you're making of yourself, shutting yourself up in this fashion? A fine sight you are, I suppose you've been here crying your heart out and diluting your whisky with tears."

She had talked herself into a fury.

"Now, now! Enough of this, I don't care what you think—or anyone else."

"All of you ran away when I needed you. Yes, all of you." He spoke bitterly.

"Oh, so that's it. Having shamed us all, you think we ought to lick your wounds. You always were the most selfish, most conceited human that ever lived, Noble Harwood."

"I won't listen to this, Nell, I won't. Please get out. And I don't care if you ever return. Or anyone else."

Goaded, Nell Daly leaped up and stuck her face in his. "You're going to listen to all I have to say! Are you going to sulk here forever? Haven't you any vestige of backbone? Haven't you any sense?"

"I don't care to see you, Nell," he replied, turning, "and I wish you would please go."

"I won't go," Noble Harwood, and you are going to listen to me. Sit down—"

NEW CHANDLER IS CONVENIENT

Needs Minimum of Attention—Everything Made Simple.

Automobile manufacturers have so perfected their product nowadays that an owner may tour for days without even touching the car except for water, oil and gasoline.

Nevertheless there comes a time when he must get busy or see that someone else does. "Chandler engineers have discounted this inevitable time by constantly overcoming some necessary point of adjustment under the car," says Victor Bresseur, of the Tri-State garage, local Chandler dealers.

"Today any woman, who has not the mechanical knowledge to oil a sewing machine, may start on a long trip with perfect confidence of reaching her destination without trouble."

"Chandler engineers have recognized the fact that nothing could be of more importance than to reduce to a minimum, the necessity of wrench work and out of the way lubricating points," continued Bresseur.

"The 1926 Chandler is evidence of their earnest endeavor to make the car not only powerful and economical in respect to upkeep, but also as care-free as possible."

"A simple turn of a valve on the left side of the motor drains the motor of oil, doing away with one of the meanest duties in connection with the care of a car."

"There is a great tendency for motorists to buy a quart of oil, occasionally, at the filling station," said Bresseur. "This means that they do not drain the old oil off, it's too much trouble on the usual car. Therefore, their motor never really gets clean oil."

"Chandler owners have learned better. They run their full filling of oil thousands of miles, and then drain the old oil off with the handy Chandler oil drain, and their motor is constantly being protected with perfectly clean oil."

Col. Carmi A. Thompson and Party Sail For Cuba

United Spanish War Veterans' Chieftain Will Dedicate Monument in Honor of Men Who Went Down With Maine.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Every ship sailing from New York for Havana carried delegations of Americans inspired by a consuming thirst for liberty. But the Sibony carried Cuban-Americans whose mission was inspired by a love of liberty less personal than patriotic.

The delegation was headed by Col. Carmi A. Thompson, of Cleveland, commander-in-chief of the United Spanish War Veterans, who on next Monday—the 28th anniversary of the sinking of the Maine by a mine in Havana harbor—will dedicate a monument erected by the Cuban government in honor of the 260 American sailors who lost their lives in that disaster.

trouble on the usual car. Therefore, their motor never really gets clean oil.

"Chandler owners have learned better. They run their full filling of oil thousands of miles, and then drain the old oil off with the handy Chandler oil drain, and their motor is constantly being protected with perfectly clean oil."

Accompanying Col. Thompson were Congressman Harold Krutson, chairman of the house pensions committee; Congressman Thomas S. Butler, chairman of the house committee on naval affairs; Monsignor John Chidwick of New York, chaplain on the Maine at the time of the explosion; Senator Rice Means of Colorado, Colonel Winfield Scott, commissioner of pensions, and a large party including several past commanders of the United Spanish War Veterans.

"I believe this dedication takes place at a most fortunate time," said Col. Thompson on sailing, "as it may serve to attract the attention of the world to what American ideals and American friendship can accomplish."

"Those factions and elements abroad, who continue to deride America's professions and to cast suspicion on America's principles, cannot but admit that in the case of Cuba every American profession has been fulfilled and American principles have been applied with unchallenged success."

"When the Maine steamed into Havana harbor, January 24, 1898, its mission was one of protection of American lives. When the Maine was treacherously sunk, its mission was taken up by the entire American nation, and broadened to embrace the lives and liberties of our Cuban neighbors."

"In the war with Spain that followed, American ideals battled the same European ideas that plunged the world into war in 1914. But neither in 1898 nor in 1917, when we entered the world war, did we fight for greed or gain."

"In Cuba today the world can see what American ideals, put into practice with practical assistance from America, can accomplish. From a looted and persecuted people, the Cubans have been helped to lift themselves to the estate of a self-governing, prosperous and progressive nation."

"The world court can learn much from the relations between America and Cuba, for here we have the highest exemplification of what the disinterested, unselfish policies of America, translated into practice, can achieve in international amity."

At the dedication of the Maine monument, which it has taken four years to erect, at a cost of $750,000, speakers, in addition to Col. Thompson, will be President Machado of Cuba, General Botancourt, president of the Cuban War Veterans' association; General Crowder, ambassador to Cuba, and Captain Watt Cluverius, who was an ensign on the Maine.

County Class B. Cage Tournament to Be Staged In Salem

Six Schools Entered For Opening Rounds

Preliminary Clashes Carded for Feb. 26, With Finals on Following Day; Hugh McPhee, Youngstown and Dave Williams, Girard, Named as Officials for Meet.

SALEM, Feb. 10.—Six county Class B boys basketball teams have entered the annual tourney of smaller schools which will be staged in Salem High's neutral gym Feb. 26 and 27.

Faculty Manager R. P. Vickers of Salem High, who has been named official manager of the tourney, has received entries from Columbiana, East Palestine, Lisbon, East Fairfield, Rogers and Salineville.

It is likely that these six constitute the entire entry list, as Hanoverton has practically decided against entering the meet this year.

Two of the best officials in this part of the state, Hugh McPhee, of Youngstown, former Ohio State star, and Dave Williams, Girard High coach, and one of Newberry college's greatest athletic heroes, have been secured by Manager Vickers to handle the games.

Last year the Class B meet was held in Salem, and such large crowds attended a comfortable slice of the gate went to each team after all expenses were paid.

Teams which played here last year complimented Salem on its direction of the tourney, expressed satisfaction with the officiating, which was done by McPhee and Williams, and all made it known that they hoped Salem would stage the meet again this year.

Columbiana put forth a bid for this year's tourney, but the state athletic association ruled that as long as Salem is not a Class B school, the local neutral floor would be used.

State high schools are divided into two groups, Salem, East Liverpool and Willsville being in the Class A or larger school group.

Complete plans have not been made but it is fairly certain that the order of play will be two games here on the afternoon of Feb. 26, and two at night. The two teams surviving will meet in the finals the afternoon of Feb. 27.

FAMOUS SALEM ATHLETE DIES AT AMES, IOWA

Frank R. Willaman Succumbs to Illness of Pneumonia.

FOLLOWING an illness of pneumonia, Frank R. Willaman, of Salem, freshman football coach and director of intramural athletics at Ames college, Iowa, and recently became a member of the Ohio State university coaching staff, died yesterday at Ames.

Both of the famous brothers were well known throughout Columbiana county and had a large number of friends in East Liverpool.

Willaman's body is being shipped to Salem for burial.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Willaman of Lincoln avenue, Salem, and one of the most brilliant all-around athletes developed in the state.

Willaman was graduated from the high school in Salem with the class of 1916 and entered Ohio State university. Shortly after he had completed his course at Columbus he went to Iowa State to assist his brother, Sam, who was then head coach there. Sam Willaman was recently named field coach at Ohio State, his alma mater, and it was common talk that Frank was to be made head coach at Ames.

Frank was one of a family of three boys and one girl, all of whom were splendid athletes. At Salem High school he was for four years a member of the varsity football, basketball and track squads, and at Ohio State he developed into one of the best fullbacks in the history of the Western conference. His brother, Sam, before him, also had made gridiron history as a Buckeye back. A younger brother, Daniel, is now attending Ohio State after having won signal honors as an athlete in Salem, while a sister, Martha, now in school at Iowa State, was considered the greatest girl basketball player ever turned out in eastern Ohio.

POWERS HANG UP 17TH WIN

Defeat Epworth League Passers at Wellsville.

East Liverpool Power five won its seventeenth clash in 19 starts last night on the M. E. court at Wellsville, defeating the Wellsville Epworth league team by a score of 36 to 12.

The Powers got away to a good start early in the engagement, leading by a score of 19-4 at the half, and maintained the pace during the remainder of the struggle.

The performance of Bucher, Mensforth and Dickey featured the tilt. The Powers are slated to play the fast Glenmore team Wednesday night on the Glenmore floor, and on Saturday they will tackle the Homer Laughlin 6 squad in the preliminary to the game between the Canton Jack Art Jewelers and the Heimle Ex-Collegians.

Special Rules For Next Series

Junior Loop Bans Resin—National Approves Its Use.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Special rules will have to be adopted for the next world's series, it became evident today, following the action of American league magnates in voting a ban on the use of resin by pitchers. The National league has approved its use by its flingers.

Clark Griffith, owner of the champion Senators, was responsible for the American league ban. "Nearly all the cheating that pitchers resort to on the mound," he said, "can be traced to the use of this stuff. It should not be allowed."

The magnates held a quiet meeting here, adopted the playing schedule of 154 games, and then departed. There were no trades and no fights. The extension of Judge Landis' contract for ten years was not officially brought up.

Mermaids Break Three Records

Ethel Lackie and Sybil Bauer Defend Laurels Today.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 10.—With three world's records shattered in the first day's competition, America's star mermaids here were hopeful of breaking other marks today in the women's National Amateur Athletic association swimming championship meeting.

Eleanor Garatti, 17-year-old Italian girl of San Rafael, Cal., clipped two-fifths of a second from her old record in the 50-yard open style, negotiating the distance in 27.1-5 seconds, and retaining her title.

In the 250-yard free style event Miss Martha Norellus, of New York, broke another world's record with her time of three minutes, nine and four-fifths seconds.

Agnes Geraghty, of New York, won the 50-yard breast stroke championship, breaking another world record with time of 35.3-5 seconds.

This afternoon Ethel Lackie, of the Illinois A. C., will defend her title in the 220-yard free style event. Sybil Bauer, Illinois A. C., will also defend her 100-yard back stroke championship.

Bobby Jones, national champion, has indicated he will also go. Other members of the team are Watts Gunn, Atlanta; Roland Mackenzie, Washington, D. C.; Bob Gardner, Chicago; Jess Sweetser, New York, and Jesse Guilford and Frances Quimet of Boston.

Beat Chester Passers in Last Quarter Rally.

After coming within a single point of tying the score in the third quar-

The East Enders ran up a big margin in the first half, the score at the halfway point being 14-4. In the third period the West Virginians began to find the basket, the standing at the end of the period being 19-13. Former Griffith Star in "Soul Fire" At the American

Walter Long's performance of a brutal sailor in "Soul Fire," Richard Barthelmess' new First National vehicle at the American theater, is likely to take its place beside Long's most brilliant screen characterizations.

Long first came into prominence as Gus, the renegade negro of D. W. Griffith's "Birth of a Nation." He joined the Griffith forces a year or so before the making of the Civil war epic and he was seen in "The Escape" and other now famous productions of this director.

Long has contributed many interesting performances to the films, none of them better remembered than his tough taxi driver, seeking to collect his sixty dollar fare, in the late Wally Reid's "The Dictator."

It used to be that man could support a family on half as much as he can now. But that was before cash registers were invented—Athens Messenger.

POLICE SEIZE
THIRD STILL

James Violo Arrested on Liquor Charge.

Marking their third successful raid within a week and a half, police last night confiscated a 40-gallon still and complete equipment at 1221 Anderson avenue and placed James Violo, who rents the house, under arrest on a charge of having impurities and equipment for the manufacture of liquor in his possession.

Although not as large as the two other stills confiscated the equipment taken last night is probably more complete and modern in every respect, authorities declared.

A truck was used to haul the catch to the police station. The outfit included the still itself, 35 gallons of liquor, 20 barrels of mash, 400 pounds of sugar, two hot plates, pans, buckets, hose and other paraphernalia.

The still was not operating when the police entered the house shortly after midnight. Violo, however, was arrested later in the night. The owner of the house, from whom Violo rents, is in Cleveland.

Violo was released on bond of $1,000 for a hearing Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

The reading party included Officers Newton, Hurd, Pugh, Kinney and Oyster.

BAXTER BILL
AIDS SCHOOLS

Board Here Acts to Clear
Up Last Year's Bills.

As a result of provisions of the Baxter bill, the Wellsville board of education will be able to pay all bills up to December 31, 1926, by the issuance of notes, and get off on the present year with a clean slate so far as the new revenue is concerned.

Action to take advantage of the Baxter bill provisions was approved by the board at its meeting last night. Clerk C. A. McLaughlin has taken the matter up with the state auditor. City Solicitor S. C. Luccock next will have to draft a resolution making the action legal.

The Best Cough Syrup
Is Home-made

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have best cough medicine you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

CHESTER QUINT
HERE TOMORROW

Chance for One of Teams to Win First Game.

Arrangements have been completed for the game between Wellsville and Chester high school teams to be staged tomorrow night on the local court, athletic officials here announced today.

Definite plans for the engagement were held up temporarily pending action by Commissioner Townsend of the Ohio High School Athletic association. The scholastic commissioner ordinarily does not approve of mid-week engagements, but his O. K. has been placed on the contest proposed here.

The result will give either Chester or Wellsville a first victory of the season. Neither the locals nor the Hancock countians have been able to break through into the winning column this season, despite close scores on several occasions, and with the two squads pretty evenly matched, a hot contest is anticipated.

CHEFALA IS OUT
ON $2,000 BOND

Joseph Chefala, charged by police with shooting with intent to kill in connection with the wounding of Alphonso Rocco recently, yesterday was released on bond of $2,000 for a preliminary hearing on Saturday, February 20, before Mayor Wallace L. Pogo. Bond was provided by his brother and Leopold Yannucci.

Bad Luck and the Devil
Pursued Him

"I don't think any one has had more bad luck and sickness than I have. In 1905 I had two ribs, an arm and collar bone broken in a railroad accident. Then I had pneumonia. After recovering I crossed a pasture when a bull chased me, tossed me over the fence and broke my right leg. In 1910 I had typhoid fever; since then severe stomach and liver trouble, which no medicine or doctor touched until two years ago I got a bottle of MAYR'S, 'One Dose Will Convince,' which proved the first ray of light in thirteen years." It is a simple harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Jesse D. Holloway and Druggists Everywhere.

FEW modern women but employ a new and different way in hygiene. A way that supplants the old-time "sanitary pad" with true protection.

Wear filmy frocks and light things... any time. Dance, motor for hours without doubt or fear.

It is called "KOTEX"... five times as absorbent as the ordinary cotton pad!

Thoroughly deodorizes... thus ending ALL fear of offending.

Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You ask for it without hesitancy at any drug or department store simply by saying "KOTEX." Costs only a few cents. Proves old ways an unnecessary risk.
